Today's Game

Circumstances Typical For Traditional Game

There's something about a BYU-Utah football game that produces electricity. Perhaps because it is one of the oldest series going in this part of the country (some historians claim the schools played six games before the turn of the century). Or it may be because it is also one of the most lopsided in college ball (Utah has a 38-10-4 lead).

But, for whatever reason, it always produces a great deal of rhetoric before and after; things like, "You can throw the records out of the window whenever these two teams get together." That expression was used frequently, and there is enough truth in the statement to keep the favored team on edge.

Take today's game for example.

The Cougars are 6-1 going into this, the 53rd meeting between the two varsity teams. One poll has the Mountain Cats ranked as 13th in the nation, and LaVell Edwards' club is currently leading the WAC with several key games yet to be played. Offensively, the Cougars also rank among the leaders in passing and scoring; first in the NCAA statistical report in passing (314.0 yards per game) and first in scoring (40.6 points per game).

Utah, on the other hand, is 2-5 for the year and struggling to get out of the WAC's second division. One league team the Utes lost to (Colorado State, 3-44) was beaten by the Cougars, 63-17. That makes quite a spread, if you are inclined to use comparative scores.

So, it looks like a funnies for the Cougars. Don't you believe it!

Coach Wayne Howard and the Utes had the misfortune of opening the season against Oklahoma, going down to expected defeat, 62-24. Then it was Houston the following week, and the difference was only 18 points (16-34). Colorado State caught the Utes leaning, and Utah toppled hard.

By the time they had righted themselves, the Utes were ready for Wyoming. They beat the Cowboys, 23-13, and that is the same 'Poke team that the Cougars battled to save a 10-7 win at Laramie.

It all narrows down to today's game. The stakes are high. A Utah win, as always for the underdog in this series, can salvage the season. A loss for the favorites will let all the air out of the balloon at a most critical point in the season.

Look for some good individual match-ups this afternoon.

The kicking game will pit Utah's Rick Partridge against Cougar freshman Jim McMahon. Partridge, who is ranked eighth in the nation with a 44.0 average, can dig the Utes out of deep holes when needed. McMahon, very steady for a freshman, hasn't that kind of average, but is getting 40.0 yards per boot.

Utah's Tom McNamara will do the Utes' place-kicking. Tom is currently ranked 12th in the nation in that department with an average of 1.43 field goals a game. BYU's Dev Duke, meanwhile, is tied for first in scoring with a total of 50 points for the season. Dev is 29 of 33 with extra point kicks, and last week connected on a 41-yarder.

Last year both BYU and Utah went to the air. The Utes threw 51 passes, and Gifnord Nielsen hit 24 of 35 for 415 yards. This year it will be Utah's Randy Gomez (ranked among the nation's top twenty passers) vs. sophomore quarterback Marc Wilson. Both have thrown for over 1,000 yards this season.

It's reported that Utah will be without the services of tailback Steve Peake, which may hurt them. BYU's ground gamen meanwhile, is starting to roll. Last week the Cougar runners had over 1000 yards rushing, their highest ground total of the season.

Although the Utes have a decisive edge in the series, the Cougars have now won five in a row. In fact, Edwards has never lost to Utah since becoming head coach at BYU.

It's under just such circumstances upsets are made. Look out for a Sunday punch.

Upsets and Highlights Along the Utah Trail

By John Mooney
Sports Editor, Salt Lake Tribune

The first college football game I reported in Salt Lake was the "upset" tie, 7-7, for the Utes against a nationally-ranked Santa Clara team, but the nation's first look at our football was even more exciting.

That was the Thanksgiving Day game in 1953 between heavily-favored Utah, under Jack Curtice, and BYU, under Chick Atkinson.

The only reason the game was played on national television was because E.L. (Dick) Romney, the commissioner of the Skyline conference, was a member of the NCAA-TV committee and fought for the game.

Fans across the nation started out watching the beauty of the mountains and then remained on tender-hooks as BYU battled the Utes down to the final seconds, with the Utes winning 33-32.

The greatest comeback I ever saw was the 28-27 Utah victory over Arizona in 1972. Remember that one? The Utes trailed 27-0 at the start of the fourth quarter and the stands started to empty.

Two Brownie Van Galder passes to Steve Odom cut the margin to 27-14, but Arizona had the ball and was driving for at least a field goal which would have taken the game out of reach.

But Steve Marshall stole a pass and returned it all the way for the score which made it 27-21 and Van Galder punched over for the winning score in the final minute.

That first year I saw Utah on the other end of such a reversal when Ike Armstrong's crew led Colorado 14-0 at the half, only to have Jenkins, Stasica and McClung score three touchdowns for the 21-14 win.

In 1942, BYU scored its first football victory in modern times at the expense of the Utes, but the Utes didn't lose another game and wound up the Skyline champ anyway.

Utah was the only college team in the area to keep football alive during World War II and the highlight was when the oft-beaten young Utes played Colorado, augmented by the Navy V-12 program, to a 22-19 decision in 1943.

A big Utah victory was the 21-13 victory over Forrest Hall and the San Francisco U. team which was bolstered by many All-Coast servicemen.

On the intercollegiate front, Utah played a whale of a game in Seattle, when Hugh McElhenney was the star of the Washington Huskies. Utah stopped McElhenney, but the Huskies won, 14-7.

That was the same year for another "first" as Wyoming, under Bowden Wyatt, beat Ike and the Utes for the first time, 13-0 at Laramie.

For a comeback on the other side of the field, there was the 1954 Utah-Arizona game in which Utah held a convincing lead at the half and Art Luppino ran wild in the second half for a 54-20 Wildcat victory.

Utah scored one of its major inter-sectional victories in 1955 by beating Missouri at Columbia, 20-14.

There was a close one, 13-6, to UCLA for the Utes under Jack Curtice in 1956 and then came the year of the great thrills, when Utah lost to Colorado and Army. The scores were 30-24 for Colorado U. and 39-33 for Army, but those games made Lee Grosscup as The Man With the Golden Arm.

In 1958, John Roning, then coaching Denver, had a big moment when his Pioneers shut out Grosscup and the Utes on the goal line for a 20-16 victory.

For a hard-nosed football, it would be hard to beat the Utah-Aggie game of 1960, with USU boasting that great line of Merlin Olsen and Clark Miller. Utah won, 6-0, as defensive back Gordon Frank led the drive the length of the field and Bud Scalley scampered over for the 6-0 victory.

Then there was an Aggie game in the Ute stadium when where quarterback Ken Harris called a quarterback sneak on the first play of the game, and he "sneaked" some 60 yards for an Aggie score.

Another major upset was Utah's 21-12 victory over an unbeaten Colorado team headed for the Orange Bowl and the 1964 heroics of Roy Jefferson in edging the Aggies and sending ing the Utes to the Liberty Bowl, where Ron Coleman was most valuable in the 32-6 win over West Virginia.

For the other side of the coin, how about the Billy Stevens pass for 92 yards, from the end zone, to Bobby Wallace and the last-second victory over the Utes?

For records, Touchdown Tony Adams of the Aggies set the NCAA record by passing for 561 yards against the Utes in 1972.

Or Virgil (the Blue Darter) Carter, who set a total offense record of 599 yards against UTEP in 1966.

Louie Giammona, Altie Taylor, McArthur Lane, Henry King had some great games against the Utes, as did Jack Hill and Tommy Larsheid.

Utah State has the best of luck against the intersectional teams with a 20-0 defeat of Wisconsin at Madison in 1968 and a 35-6 victory over Kentucky on the Wildcat field in 1970.

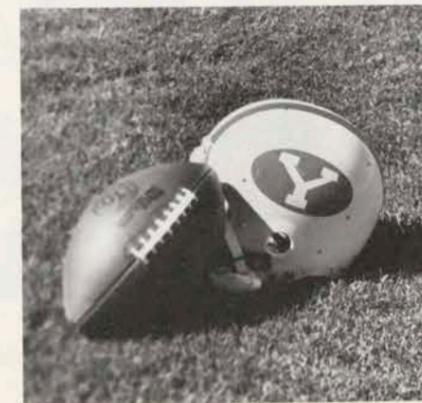

Then there was a Wyoming-USU game when John Caputo stole the ball from a Wyoming ball carrier and the Aggies pulled a thriller out of the fire.

Utah and the Aggies played one of their expected thrillers in Logan the afternoon after President Kennedy was shot. Remember the Utes ran from the punt formation for a key first down, scored, and then hung on for dear life as the Aggie drive stopped inches short (or was it inches over?) the goal line.

Tommie Hudspeth brought BYU its first football title in 1965 with Phil Odle as one of the stars of the Marine detachment enrolling with the Cougars.

LaVell Edwards brought the Cougars from a predicted last-place finish in 1974 to an undisputed title and last year Edwards and All-America quarterback Gifford Nielsen led BYU to a co-championship.

Weber State, young in football tradition as a four-year college, hasn't shared the success in football that its more venerable rivals have. But as the Wildcats, Utes, Aggies and Cougars play more frequently, a few years from now, the old timers will be recalling those games with the same enjoyment we have tasted.

Freshman fullback Scott Reber takes a handoff from Marc Wilson. Reber had 70 yards in rushing and pass receptions.

Offense ExplodesAgain

FINAL SCORE: BYU 34, Arizona 14

Getting strong performances both offensively and defensively, the Cougars struck early in game with Wildcats, jumping off to a 27-0 lead midway in the second quarter. The win pushed the Cougar record to 6-1 for the season, 4-0 in league play.

Quarterback Marc Wilson had another good afternoon, passing for 334 yards and two touchdowns in the Arizona win.

With help from interior line, (78) Lance Reynolds in particular, fullback Bill Ring plunges for gain.

the training table

by Nick Peters

In 450 B.C., a Greek athletic trainer named Dromeus conceived a meat diet for athletes and it merely took progress and modern technology more than 2,400 years to prove him wrong.

Dromeus, who did his thing in the village of Stymphalus, contended that muscle was so vital in athletic endeavor that young men would become more proficient in their sport by devouring more muscle—in other words, large quantities of meat.

It was a justifiable assumption. Dromeus' athletes were well-conditioned and skilled in their sport, so when they consumed great amounts of meat and continued to have success, the diet was considered a key.

To this day, many coaches and trainers are proponents of the high-protein diet, explaining why steak is still the most popular item on training tables throughout our land.

UCLA's venerable Ducky Drake, the Dromeus of Westwood, reasonably explains why Bruin athletes still lean heavily to steak, even for their pre-game meal a few hours prior to an event.

"Over the years our teams have been pretty successful," Drake, a former track coach, understated. "We are aware of the studies on protein and carbohydrates, but don't feel there's any reason to change."

Another highly-successful university embraces the same philosophy—with a slight adjustment. "We now order a smaller steak (8 ounces) and increase the carbohydrates, especially for the track and basketball athletes who burn it off so fast," explained the athletic trainer.

"But the ultimate decision rests with the coach, and most coaches are slow to change what has been a winning formula," Ward admitted. "But we have slowly made some changes, like ordering the smaller steak."

It seems unusual that trainers, who have received some instruction in nutrition, do not have the final say in meals for athletes. That responsibility rests on the shoulders of the coach, who undoubtedly receives advice from the team physician.

As a result, it is the medical profession which has brought about changes in diet for athletes, destroying some of the old myths about high-protein intake in favor of an emphasis on carbohydrates.

"A minimal amount of meat or protein is necessary for maintaining a positive nitrogen balance, but it actually should be only a part of a balanced diet and certainly not the dominant part," observed Oklahoma State team physician Donald Cooper in a 1965 study.

"It is not protein that is utilized to produce muscular energy; it is glycogen, or simple sugars, and phosphates," Dr. Cooper reported. "In fact, it is better to avoid proteins in a pre-game meal, as they tend to aggravate the problem of acid in the muscles and other body systems."

Though Dr. Cooper's report was made more than 10 years ago, only recently have several schools begun to change their thinking about an athlete's diet and the pre-game meal.

"I've been in this business for 50 years and I've seen so much steak, I always order fish for myself now," noted Henry Schmidt, veteran University of Santa Clara trainer who also worked for many years with the 49ers and the East-West Game.

"We always used to eat steak before, but now we have the athletes eating hotcakes," said Schmidt. "I really don't understand it, but they claim it's easier to digest hotcakes. We changed the diet for our football players, but the basketball team still eats steaks."

"Maybe the athletes in the old days could burn off all that protein easier," Schmidt offered. "There were no cars then and they'd be walking many miles every day. I always get in trouble when I say this, but I think they were in better shape and tougher then."

It can also be safely assumed that many schools are grasping the newer carbohydrate diets because they obviously are more feasible economically in these times of spiraling athletic costs. It costs a lot less to order hotcakes for 60 football players instead of steaks, which are at least $5 at most hotels which provide pre-game meals.

"The training table contents really don't make much difference if the

athlete is basically well-conditioned and well-nourished," said Jerome Patmont, team physician of the 1975 U.S. Pan American Games squad.

"This is even truer concerning the pre-game meal," added Dr. Patmont. "What an athlete eats several hours before a game is not digested by the time he competes, so it really doesn't matter what he eats. The big thing now is fluid replacement—that is a much more important concern before and during a game."

"I strongly believe in the new trend toward carbohydrate loading," Dr. Patmont pointed out. "I believe in strenuous workouts up to 48 hours before competition, then total rest and loading up with carbohydrates. That will produce the highest energy level during competition."

Dr. Patmont is not alone in playing down the value of the pre-game meal. Athletes, who tend to have voracious appetites, lean heavily to junk foods, as do many college students, but this isn't necessarily a detriment in preparing for a game.

"The meal before any sporting event should be acceptable to the individual athlete," noted nutritionist and author Ellington Darden at a recent Atlanta clinic for team physicians. "Whatever the athlete feels will help his performance should be eaten."

"In fact," Dr. Darden continued, "the pre-game meal for 98 percent of your athletes supplies very little of the actual energy that is used in the game. This energy ordinarily comes from food consumed from two to 14 days prior to the contest."

Bennett's Salutes Dave Schulthess ... A True Professional

Perhaps "Ace Shrdlu" is the most adent fan of BYU sports. He lives and dies each week with the Cougars' fortunes, because publicizing them is his stock in trade.

Ace is BYU's sports information director, who's real name is Dave Schulthess. The nickname "Ace" has stuck with him because he is a shrewd reporter, and "Shrdlu" because that is the newspaper linotyper's term for an oldtimer in the business.

A veteran of 26 years as sports information director at BYU, Schulthess is responsible for writing the majority of articles over the years. He also coordinates the weekly Bennett's Big Four Luncheon along with three other sports information directors from the University of Utah, Weber State College and Utah State University. The luncheon is where the media talk to players and coaches.

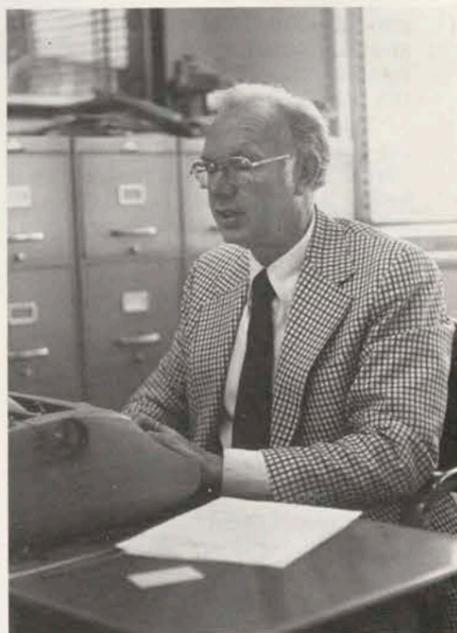

And Bennett's have asked that this article salute Schulthess, a motivating force behind the scenes.

Dave was editor of the BYU student newspaper and on graduation worked for a time with the Salt Lake Telegram before joining the BYU public relations staff as the first fulltime sports information director. He currently is second vice-president of the College Sports Information Director's of America, and will assume the presidency in two years.

"The thing I've noticed about Dave is his equanimity," says Bill Young, himself a nationally regarded sports information director at the University of Wyoming. "I've never seen Dave ruffled or upset about anything in the 17 years I've worked with him. He's very calm in a business where objectivity is important in serving so many people and handling so many requests."

In addition to logging many hours of service for BYU, Schulthess also serves as the executive secretary in the Orem 15th Ward. He and his wife, Fran, are the parents of four children, Allison Wentzel, who lives in California; Tod, who is serving as a missionary in the Navajo Mission; Patrice, a student at BYU; and Ann, who is in junior high school.

Dave Schulthess, BYU sports information director, writes and oversees a mailing of over 200 press releases each week during football season.

Seated on Grandpa Schulthess' lap are grand daughters Heather and Brooke Wentzel.

Results of the weekly Bennett's Luncheon writer's poll appear below:

BYU Cougar Club: 5,000 Strong By 1980

Dale McCann, Executive Secretary of BYU's Cougar Club, revealed in a recent interview plans for a five thousand member athletic booster group by 1980. It's an ambitious goal, and we asked him why and how he planned to accomplish it.

McCann: If you have followed BYU athletics in recent years you can see that our program has progressed tremendously. The Cougars have been consistent winners in all major and minor sports. Our performance is not only bringing us national recognition but also national ranking by sports writers and media. In years past our athletic programs have gone through "peaks and valleys". We had good years and bad years. It's been our observation that every successful athletic program in the country has been supported by a strong, successful, booster organization. The Cougar Club at Brigham Young University was organized to support not only football and basketball but all sports and certainly women's athletics as well.

Why do the Cougars need this kind of support?

McCann: With the growth of our programs we need a lot of support in the recruiting of athletes. It's a very competitive business, and BYU must project a good image if we are going to be able to get the best athletes available. As you perhaps know, NCAA and WAC Conference rules prohibit using University money for recruiting purposes. That's the primary reason why Cougar Club was established to provide funds for recruiting purposes.

How many members of Cougar Club do you have today?

McCann: Today we have over 1,300 alumni, parents, students, and friends of BYU who belong to Cougar Club. Although our membership is concentrated in Utah and Salt Lake Counties we have members throughout the entire country. Approximately one-third of our membership resides outside the state of Utah.

How long has Cougar Club been organized?

McCann: In 1963 we started with a campus student chapter. Today we have broadened our membership considerably to include everyone who would like to see the Cougars continue their successful course. There have been hundreds of individuals who not only have maintained active membership during these past thirteen years but have provided the leadership necessary to help Cougar Club achieve the success it has. We are indebted to these loyal friends who have helped so importantly over the years to reach the level of support we currently have.

In other words, Cougar Club isn't just a cheering section then?

McCann: No, it's not just a group that gets together to second guess the coaches and administration either. We like to think that ours is a positive organization that exists to make things better at BYU. We are not interested in criticizing but improving.

How does Cougar Club help?

McCann: If you take a look at our athletic record in the past you can see the results didn't always meet our expectations. We lost some splendid athletes to other universities who enjoyed more vigorous recruiting programs. The trend is now in our direction, and Cougar Club has helped immeasurably in not only providing financial support necessary but also in helping to identify outstanding athletes and in appropriate ways encouraging them to come to BYU. We're getting athletes today who wouldn't have dreamed of coming to BYU in years past.

You mentioned that you have a nationwide membership in Cougar Club. Will you explain this further?

McCann: There's not question that our strongest chapters are here in Utah Valley and Salt Lake City. Our membership growth here has been remarkable. In addition, however, we have chapters in Sevier Valley, in Los Angeles, Bay Area, Dallas, Denver, Boise, Idaho Falls, and Portland. We have plans to organize chapters in San Diego, Las Vegas, and Ogden. In addition to these chapters we have supporters throughout the country in nearly every major city. These people want to see BYU's athletic program grow just as much as we in Provo do.

What does Cougar Club offer its members?

McCann: First, we offer the satisfaction that membership contributes to athletic excellence at BYU. This is the most important benefit. It makes its members feel like an important part of every winning Cougar effort. But we also offer attractive press books for football and basketball, preferred parking privileges at home games, complimentary tickets to the Cougar Club Annual Banquet, which is now a major event, handsome Cougar Club plaques to regular members, and appropriate mementos for other levels of participation. Cougar Club also sponsors additional activities to support the teams.

Like what?

McCann: Well, in the past we've chartered flights and tours to Hawaii, Arizona for basketball, baseball and rugby games. Of course, we were very much a part of the Tangerine Bowl group last December. Right now Cougar Club is involved in tours to Hawaii for the Rainbow Classic Basketball Tournament and the Japan Football Tour. Additionally, Cougar

Cougar Club Membership

Club grants go towards sponsoring live television of Cougar game played away from home such as the upcoming BYU vs. Arizona State football game in Tempe which will be broadcast on KBYU TV.

Going back to the goal of 5,000 members by 1980, do you really think that you can make that figure?

McCann: I really believe the only reason we don't have 5,000 members now is because we simply haven't asked them. We have the kind of loyalty among our alumni and friends that is uncommon in college athletics. When we adequately tell our story and ask them for their support, I think that BYU fans will join our ranks. As a matter of fact, I anticipate that within the next two years we will have over 1,000 members in the Los Angeles area alone.

What kind of memberships are available?

McCann: Our regular memberships are available for $100 per year. In addition, we also have members who have contributed much more. For instance, a Cougar Club life membership is $1,500 donated over a three-year period. Silver Cougar memberships are $500 annually, and Golden Cougar memberships go for a $1,000 annual contribution. Lifetime Silver memberships are $7,500 donated over a three-year period, and Lifetime Golden Cougar Clubbers give $15,000 within three years. I should add there that Lifetime funds go into an endowment the interest of which perpetuates support in perpetuity.

Well, it sounds like your programs are as ambitious as your goals.

McCann: We certainly hope so. It's a big job keeping ahead of BYU athletics these days. We think that Cougar Club is equal to the task, and it's a lot of fun being part of the effort.

Going back to the goal of 5,000 members by 1980, do you really think that you can make that figure?

McCann: I really believe the only reason we don't have 5,000 members now is because we simply haven't asked them. We have the kind of loyalty among our alumni and friends that is uncommon in college athletics. When we adequately tell our story and ask them for their support, I think that BYU fans will join our ranks. As a matter of fact, I anticipate that within the next two years we will have over 1,000 members in the Los Angeles area alone.

How is Cougar Club organized?

McCann: We have a constitution which provides for a Board of Directors. The Board is made up of a Chairman, Chairman-Elect, Past Chairman, Managing Director, Executive Secretary, Athletic Director, Dean of the College of Physical Education, other members of the Athletic Department, six elected directors who serve staggered three-year terms and representatives from the Athletic Business Office, Development Office, and Presidents of all Cougar Club Chapters. These people establish policy and give direction to the Club.

What kind of memberships are available?

McCann: Our regular memberships are available for $100 per year. In addition we also have members who have contributed much more. For instance, a Cougar Club life membership is $1,500 donated over a three-year period. Silver Cougar memberships are $500 annually, and Golden Cougar memberships go for a $1,000 annual contribution. Lifetime Silver memberships are $7,500 donated over a three-year period, and Lifetime Golden Cougar Clubbers give $15,000 within three years. I should add here that Lifetime funds go into an endowment the interest of which perpetuates support in perpetuity.

19 North University Provo, Utah 373-1379 • University Mall, Orem, Utah 225-0383

John Newcombe's tournament play, like his Rolex, is unmistakable. His own Rolex reflects all the durability, elegance and precision of the Rolex.

The Cosmograph in stainless steel with matching bracelet and screw-down push buttons for timing sequences to 1/5 second (6263/206).

The Lady-Date in stainless steel with matching bracelet and special Cyclops crystal (6916/210).

Rolex Oysters are pressure-proof down to 165 feet.

A Cosmopolitan Campus

There is, without argument, an unusual atmosphere at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

What is it that makes BYU its own kind of place? The essential difference is tied to the Latter-day Saint philosophy of learning, particularly the firm commitment held by students and faculty in the harmony between secular and spiritual truths.

The direction taken by the 25,000 LDS students from around the world who study there is fresh and insightful: there is creative concern about the challenges facing modern society and they are doing something about that concern.

BYU has had more than its share of firsts, but the University has much more to offer prospective engineers, artists, teachers and businessmen. It is a place where a student can examine his or her own needs for truth in the context of moral and spiritual development.

The answers to students' searching questions are shaped by the variety of interests, background and aspirations. BYU is not an island. The largest ethnic group on campus is the American Indian, numbering over 500. There are chicanos, blacks, orientals and others, all applying their own particular perspective of life to their academic programs through commitment to the principles of honesty and moral strength.

The campus is perhaps the most cosmopolitan in the nation, enrolling students from 70 foreign countries, and nearly 8,000 others are bilingual, having served a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints abroad.

Admission is open to those of any race, color, creed, or national origin, provided they meet the University's requirements and their personal behavior conforms to the standards of the LDS Church.

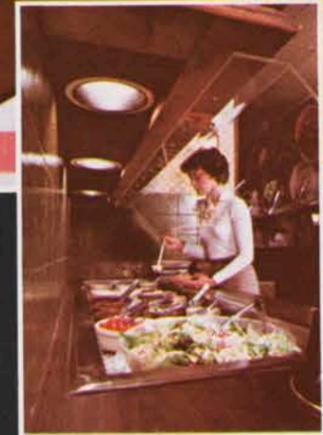

It was a century ago that Brigham Young, the great Mormon colonizer of the West, signed a deed of trust to establish to be Brigham Young University. A German immigrant school master, Dr. Karl G. Maeser, was commissioned to open the institution with this charge: "I want you to remember that you ought not to teach even the alphabet or the multiplication tables without the spirit of God."

Amid the activity and academic pursuit engaged in at BYU, a profile emerges that is indeed unlike that of any other university. This is a Mormon University; a place where ideals meet aspirations.

A Heap of Difference

We serve the finest pizza obtainable. And we serve it a variety of ways. But there's another side to our menu.

Our own brick oven bakery offers a tempting variety of fresh breads which are only the beginning of our delectable selection of sandwiches. Our Brick Oven Burger, for example, smothered with thick and zesty homemade barbeque sauce. Our oven toasted Meatball Sandwich is rich with sauce and cheese. Our Peasant Boy is delicately layered with hearty stacks of meats, lettuce, tomatoes and cheese.

Our refrigerated salad bar allows you to arrange your own bowl of crisp, colorful greens and things. Our soup kettle ladles time simmered favorites. And our old world recipes for baked beans, spaghetti and lasagna remain unparalleled. But great food isn't all you'll enjoy at Heaps Brick Oven Restaurant. You'll also enjoy dinner in an intimately lit old world setting. Heaps has always been a favorite. But a renewed menu and atmosphere have made a heap of difference.

Wayne Howard and winning go hand in hand. The native Californian has spent 18 years in the coaching profession (all of them as a head coach) and has rebuilt the football program at three schools.

Unlike most coaches Howard has never been an assistant coach, so the Howard football philosophy is strictly his own. The system has worked to perfection as Howard's 18 year win-loss record of 122-46-3 proves.

The new Utah coach, who took over the reigns during the first week of December, describes himself as "defensive oriented." Howard believes that the three key ingredients for a winning team are a strong defense, combined with a good kicking game and a consistent and mistake free offense. "We will do a lot of different things on offense," he says, "but we don't want to let our offense get our defense in trouble."

Howard moves to Utah from Cal.-State Long Beach (Long Beach State) where he posted an outstanding three-year record of 23-10-0. The year before Howard took over the 49er fortunes the school had chalked up its worst grid season in history. Howard turned the program the first year by going 6-5 in 1974. The next year he tied the Long Beach record for most wins in a season as the 49ers compiled a 9-2 mark. Last season his team was 8-2 on the year.

Howard's first four-year college coaching job was at the University of California at Riverside where he went in 1972. In two seasons there he chalked up 17 wins against just three losses. As a four-year college coach, Howard has a mark of 40-13-0 for a winning percentage of .755.

Howard began his football career in Long Beach. He played football and baseball in high school and went on to star in both sports at the University of Redlands where he obtained his bachelor's degree in 1957. He earned a master's degree from San Jose State in 1965.

He began his coaching career at Lincoln High School in San Jose in 1959 as head coach and in seven years his teams won 45, lost 15, and tied three.

Howard has had 10 straight winning seasons and only two losing seasons in 18 years as a head coach.

He and his wife, June, have a daughter, Kristen.

Signups for the BYU alumni/friends tour to Hawaii for the holidays Rainbow Classic Basketball Tournament are brisk, according to Steve Barrett, Alumni Activities director. The eight-day, exclusive charter tour includes plane fare, deluxe hotel reservations, reserved seats for Cougar games, tours of Pearl Harbor and the Polynesian Cultural Center (including a dinner) and a Hawaiian New Year's Eve party.

The tour departs Salt Lake City Dec. 26. Waikiki's new Hyatt Regency will host the group for the first five days. The Cougars play their first game of the tournament against North Carolina on Dec. 28 at 9 p.m.

On Dec. 31 the tour moves to Hilo for the Hawaiian New Year's Eve party at the Kona Surf Hotel. Church services will be held Sunday morning with the rest of the day for leisure. On Jan. 2 a day-long tour of Volcano National Park precedes the return flight to Salt Lake City.

Tour cost is $599 with air-only reservations available. For further details call the BYU Alumni House.

Football Fact Sheet

GAME: Brigham Young University (Western Athletic Conference) 6-1 (4-0 WAC) vs.
University of Utah (Western Athletic Conference) 2-5 (1-3 WAC)

DATE, SITE: Saturday, November 5, 1977 - 1:30 p.m. (MST) - BYU Stadium, Provo, Utah

CROWD: Officials in the BYU Ticket Office are anticipating a crowd in excess of 30,000 for Saturday's game. If the crowd goes over that figure, it will fourth straight capacity-plus crowd. So far this season the Cougars have drawn crowds of 35,196 (Kansas State opener), 33,352 (New Mexico), and 33,106 (Arizona) last Saturday. The season average is now 33,855, which is well over the previous high for a season at BYU.

COACHES: BYU's LaVell Edwards (Utah State '52) is now in his sixth year as head man and his overall record is 40-23-1 (.633), Edwards is assured of a fourth winning season in a row, and his fifth since taking over the program. LaVell has never lost a game to Utah. Wayne Howard (Redlands '57) is in his first year at Utah, having joined the Utes after a very successful stint at Long Beach State. Howard's 18-plus years in coaching has netted him an overall record of 124-41-3. As coach at four-year institutions it is 42-18-0.

SERIES RECORD: While the Cougars have made good progress in recent years, it will take them a long time to even the series. The Utes hold a commanding lead, 38-10-4 overall. BYU has now won five in a row, however, and it wasn't too many years ago the Cougars could count only two victories in the series that first started in 1922.

LAST YEAR: As the final game of the 1976 season for BYU, the game was played in Salt Lake City before 30,503 fans. Utah knew the Cougars would pass, and that's just what Gifford Nielsen and teammates did; Nielsen passed for 415 yards and three touchdowns (24 out of 35 with three interceptions). Utah did a little passing of its own, going to the air 51 times. Defensively, the Cougars gave up only 65 yards rushing. Utah then finished off the season against LSU, and BYU, co-champion in the WAC with Wyoming, went to the Tangerine Bowl.

LAST WEEK: The two rivals both hosted Arizona schools last week. BYU started strong in the game at Provo, downing Arizona, 34-14, while Arizona State was battering the Utes, 47-19, at Salt Lake City.

INJURIES: Neither team is in very good shape for Saturday's encounter. Utah seems to be suffering the most, however, with the loss of three other key players. Most recent losses for the Utes are Steve Rudesill, Rich Umphrey and Steve Peake. As for the Cougars, fullback Todd Christensen, who missed the UA game, may be back this weekend. Physically, the Cougars took a pretty good pasting from the Wildcats, but there were no long-term injuries; just a bunch of bruises and sprains, etc.

Jo Lene Company of Provo To Award $6,000 Grants

This week the Jo Lene Company of Provo, Utah, announced the establishment of $6,000 in athletic scholarships which will be awarded annually to the outstanding performers in the BYU vs. Utah football and basketball games.

Receipients of the awards will be the respective athletic departments of the two schools, and will be made on the basis of outstanding performances by the athletes from the two universities in basketball and football.

In football, a $1,500 athletic grant will be awarded to the outstanding defensive player, and another $1,500 stipened will be donated to the outstanding offensive player.

In basketball, a $1,500 award will be given to the most valuable plyer in each of the two games the schools play each season.

Under National Collegiate Athletic Association regulations, the $1,500 check will be awarded in the selected player's name. The winning athletes will receive a certificate of the Honor. The universities will administer the funds.

A reporter covering the event for the Provo Herald, Salt Lake Tribune and Deseret News will comprise the three-member selection committee.

"This is a tremendous gesture on the part of the Jo Lene-Dittos to help support intercollegiate athletics at these two great schools," said Arnie

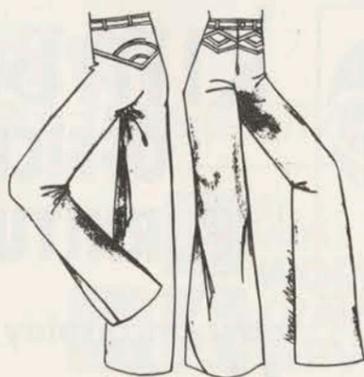

Ferrin, director of athletics at Utah. "I'm sure this will stimulate interest in one of the great rivalries in college athletics."

Donald W. Geis, president of Jo

Lene Company, added: "The company is very pleased to be able to make this contribution for the benefit of high education and the communities of Provo and Salt Lake City."

A Very Important Message For College Sports Fans

Many of you have already seen the various football preview magazines which can be purchased at most newsstands around the nation. Basketball preview publications were scheduled to follow in a short time. Much of the editorial and photographic material which helps these publications offer their readers accurate, timely and exciting previews of the season ahead is supplied by the Sports Information Directors of the colleges included.

Also appearing in many of these publications are advertisements by firms sometimes known as "information services," "prediction services" and "phone services," offering so-called inside information in various forms, which are generally known as "tout sheets."

Because of this, some Sports Information Directors have not sent information to publications which contain these ads, feeling that they do not wish to be a party to the association of their schools' athletic programs with such advertising. Other SIDs have chosen to continue sending information to preview magazines, not wanting to deprive readers of access to information from the best possible source, the schools themselves.

In regard to these "services" advertised in many of the preview magazines, CoSIDA, the organization of College Sports Information Directors of America, wishes to make the following statement to the college sports fans of our country:

1. CoSIDA members are the primary informational source for athletics on each campus and its members DO NOT supply material to these "services".
2. Many of these "services" are used heavily by those who wish to illegally gamble on college football or basketball. CoSIDA condemns illegal gambling, which is the primary financial source for organized crime. It also opposes any attempt to legalize gambling, which would destroy the colorful spectacle of college athletics as we know it today.
3. CoSIDA asks two questions of persons who are considering utilizing these "services" for the purpose of gaining an "edge" when placing an illegal bet:
 - (a) Do you have any real basis for thinking that your "tout sheet" possesses inside information not otherwise available to the public?
 - (b) Do you realize that according to FBI estimates several million dollars a year of illegal gambling money goes toward financing organized crime?

CoSIDA presents this statement to you in hopes of playing a small role in protecting the student-athletes of today and tomorrow from a repeat of the betting scandals of the 50's and 60's which nearly destroyed our great athletic programs.

KTVX Player Of The Week

GARY PETERSON, KTVX Player of the Week

If your looking for a good "come-back" story, you needn't look further than Gary Peterson, the Cougars' defensive tackle who was named Defensive Player of the Week for the Western Athletic Conference and KTVX Player of the Week.

It was just two years ago that Peterson was recovering from brain surgery in the Utah Valley Hospital, and his career as a football player was in serious question. But Gary responded to treatment and last year was back in the Cougar front four as a regular.

"Gary has continued to improve with each game," said head coach LaVell Edwards, "getting better and better as the season progresses."

Last Saturday against Arizona the senior from Cedar Fort, Utah, came up with his best defensive score of the season. According to unofficial press box statistics, Peterson had four assisted tackles, eight unassisted tackles, and three tackles for a loss.

Again, the defense played a major role in the victory, and once again Peterson was a force to be reckoned with.
