BYU vs. Utah

Utah is the League's Marquee Team

The Utes are perhaps the finest team to come to LaVell Edwards Stadium this season as they look to seal the Mountain West Conference title. Utah has only lost one game on the road and once at home. Although anything can happen in a rivalry, the bowl-bound Utes appear unstoppable.

Linebacker Colby Bockwoldt

The senior speedster from Sunset, Utah, is one of the few remaining active Cougars to play under coaches Gary Crowton and LaVell Edwards. Colby Bockwoldt was also one of the Cougars to complete the grueling triathlon, but now the triumph atop Sundance has taken on new meaning.

Softball's Lauren Watson

Junior California catcher Lauren Watson belted her second career grand slam home run last season. The "granny" happened to break a 5-5 deadlock with Utah and led BYU to a 12-5 victory over the Utes. Watson is a second-team All-American and is among 11 lettermen returning for the Cougars.

GAME DAY

BYU VS. UTAH

Survival Saturday and Separation Saturday are new terms coined by television markets this season, topped only by Rival Saturday—which is today for BYU and Utah.

Cougars Ifo Pili (95), Aaron Francisco (33) and Levi Madarieta (7) combine for a tackle at Notre Dame. Francisco led all BYU defenders with 13 tackles, including one for a loss and had a pass breakup.

Survival Saturday came two days after BYU lost to Boise State and Utah won in triple overtime at the Air Force Academy. Separation Saturday was when BYU lost at Wyoming.

As far as the Mountain West Conference is concerned, Separation Saturday might as well have been on Survival Saturday, for that is when the Utes separated themselves from the rest of the league. Colorado State lost at Wyoming that weekend and the Utes pulled off the triple overtime victory.

Last Week

Utah clinched at least a share of the MWC crown with a 47-17 victory over Wyoming. Should Utah win today, it would be its first outright league title since 1957—Utah has shared titles in 1964 [when it went to the Liberty Bowl], 1995 and 1999.

BYU lost at Notre Dame, 33-14, with Reynaldo Brathwaite netting 77 yards, including one touchdown. Reserve tight end Justin Jory was BYU's leading receiver with three catches for 81 yards.

North-South

North-South is a term used in football to indicate a type of slashing runner who runs vertical instead of laterally on the field. However, there are a lot of North-South comparisons that have gone on during the year as Utah fans have basked in a great season, to the lament of some of the Cougar fans 45 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Often Cougar/Ute fans will compare the score and other successes or failures of their rival program. Take attendance, for instance. A 4-5 BYU team still drew 60,554 fans on the snowy Thursday evening in its last home game against Boise State.

GAME DAY continued from page 2

When BYU was at UNLV the week before Boise State, over 10,000 of the 30,084 crowd in Sam Boyd Stadium were Cougar partisans, many of whom traveled to Las Vegas. Contrast that with the 24,241 fans who attended the Utah game at UNLV when the Utes capped a 6-1 record with a victory over the Rebels the week before BYU came to the Silver Dollar City.

The 37,288 fans Utah drew to 45,017-seat Rice-Eccles Stadium for New Mexico the week after its victory at UNLV, was not a strong show of support for a great season. Not only did the Utes lose to UNM, it was their poorest attendance of the season.

The "glass may be half empty or half full," depending on how attendance is viewed. Utah set a new single-season attendance record, passing the 1999 average of 39,249 fans with the help of two free ducats to each season ticket holder for the Wyoming game which helped account for a crowd of 41,307.

The Utes have gotten stronger on the field since free tickets were given out to a televised Thursday home game earlier in the season.

Were it not for a two-point loss at Texas A & M, the BCS chatter would have been for the Utes, until they stubbed their toe against New Mexico. And had that occurred, there might have been even more rumors about Utah Head Coach Urban Meyer perhaps returning to Notre Dame.

It is due to Notre Dame that BYU did not play as many MWC games in November as the Utes. Teams play the Fighting Irish whenever Notre Dame has room on its schedule, not vice versa.

As topsy-turvy as the MWC has been, before last weekend it was conceivable that a six-way tie could have happened for first place and today's BYU-Utah game could have been for the conference crown.

Stealing Thunder

Because this is a rivalry, it doesn't matter if the league title is at stake. Utah can seal the Steve Smilanich Beehive Boot, the symbol of in-state supremacy, with a victory over the Cougars.

A Cougar victory today would put them in a tie with Weber State for the Boot, as the Wildcats beat Southern Utah, 13-3. Then the collegiate sportswriters would have to break the tie with a vote. The Utes opened the season with a 40-20 victory over Utah State in Salt Lake City and BYU didn't play the Aggies.

The Utes have tarnished good BYU seasons and the underdog Cougars are overdue returning the favor. Utah's upsets in this rivalry put a damper on the 8-2 incoming Cougar record in 1999 (Utah was 7-3), the 9-2 BYU mark in 1994 (Utah was 8-2), the 8-3 record of 1988 (Utah was 5-5) and the 7-4 record going into 1978 (Utah was 5-3), as well as tainting a couple other BYU league titles.

Returned Missionaries

Both teams have plenty of returned Church missionaries on their rosters, with the Cougars holding the advantage, 64-27. For a unique listing of these missionaries who speak foreign languages for both the Utes and Cougars as a result of those missions, check out the chart on page 8.

There are even four returned Church missionaries on the BYU coaching staff: Gary Crowton (Korea), Mike Empey (San Jose), Lance Reynolds (Washington state) and Steve Kaufusi (Tonga).

Ute Tidbits

Utah tight end/running back Ben Moa is a cousin to BYU running back Fahu Tah. Utah freshman linebacker Taylor Miller is the son of former BYU all-conference linebacker Larry Miller (1975-78).

Honored Today

Former BYU assistant coach Dick Felt is being honored today as the Foundation of Excellence Award recipient by the Varsity Club. Felt, who played from 1952-54 and served as an assistant coach from 1967-93 with the Cougars. After his retirement, Felt helped establish BYU's Varsity Club as well as serve on its board.

Wait 'Til Next Year

The MWC determines the date of the BYU-Utah game in Salt Lake City as well as the rest of the league games. The 2004 non-conference schedule show Utah hosting North Carolina and Texas A & M on Sept. 4 and 25, respectively. The Utes are also scheduled to play at Arizona on Sept. 11 and at USU on Sept. 18.

BYU hosts USC on Sept. 4, is at Stanford on Sept. 18 and at Boise State on Sept. 25. BYU hosts Notre Dame on Oct. 30 next season and then plays at Notre Dame on Oct. 22 in 2005.

The above dates are subject to change pending television negotiations.

Daniel Marquardt (77) and Justin Carlson-Maddux (97) got to Notre Dame quarterback Brady Quinn for one of his two sacks. However, it was a long afternoon because the Fighting Irish had the ball for 36:56, running off 80 plays to BYU's 56.

COLBY BOCKWOLDT

HARD-WORKING HARD-HITTER

By Amy Ann Rupp, Athletic Media Relations

Colby Bockwoldt is known in football for his speed, his solid hitting, his reliability and the interception he returned for a touchdown against San Diego State University earlier this season.

While all of these things are true, Bockwoldt didn't just appear out of the sky as a 230-pound outside linebacker, in his senior season and one of the top defenders in the Mountain West Conference. He worked hard to get to that point.

The 6-2 senior from Sunset, Utah, said one phrase describes him—hard-working.

"I have had to work hard for everything," Bockwoldt said. "Life is hard so you have to work hard."

Colby Bockwoldt

Hard Work in Football:

Colby's football roots run deep. His father played football in the 70s for Weber State University and then went on to play in the NFL. At the early age of five or six, Bockwoldt's parents enrolled him in football to carry on the family legacy.

"I really began playing because I looked up to my dad so much," Bockwoldt said. "But I actually wanted to quit when I was little. However, I never did because every time I wanted to my parents would tell me that I had to stick with what I started. Eventually I just kept getting more and more excited at the beginning of each season until I just loved football."

Despite his love for the game, Colby hasn't always been tagged as the largest football player or the fastest on the field.

"When I was a sophomore in high school I was actually slower than most of the guys on the team," Bockwoldt said. "My sophomore year I decided to join the track team to get faster for football."

Through the help of his track coaches, who doubled as his football coaches, he began to run and continue to improve.

"I improved enough to win the 5A state title in the 4X100 meter relay one year," Bockwoldt said.

Colby has continued to improve since that time and is now touted as one of the fastest players on the BYU team.

"Track helped me so much to be able to develop speed, endurance and coordination," Bockwoldt said. "I recommend every athlete do some track event for the sheer developmental aspects of it."

"I have always been smaller than the rest of the guys," he said. "I only weigh in at 230 where most of the guys that I play with are 240 or 250 pounds. That really puts a disadvantage on me when I am trying to play tough defense."

Although this could be a stumbling block to Colby, he doesn't see it that way. Instead, he loves defense and his position.

"I much rather prefer to play defense," Bockwoldt said. "On offense you actually have to worry about the ball and use strategy. On defense there isn't much thinking, just crazy recklessness. When that whistle blows it just gets crazy in there and that is what I like. That is why I play football."

As an Outside Linebacker: Despite Colby's speed and finesse as an outside linebacker, he began football not there, but as a middle linebacker.

"Coaches at BYU felt I would be able to contribute to the team more as an outside linebacker because of my speed and rush cover," Bockwoldt said. "It took a little to get used to it, but with practice it has worked out well."

Beside having to get used to the new position as an outside linebacker, Colby also had to deal with the ups and downs of the position.

"As an outside linebacker you don't really get any of the big attention and glory that many of the other guys on the team get," Bockwoldt said. "You just kind of learn to deal with it and make the best of the situation."

Making the best of the situation is what he did one particular football media day.

"Football media days aren't very exciting for guys like me," Bockwoldt said. "It seems the quarterbacks and coaches are the ones with all the excitement about them and they get the herds of attention."

"So to make it a little more exciting we began to pass the ball a little with some of the guys there," he said.

One of those guys there happened to be news reporter Kathy Aikin's young son Tanner.

"We got to talking with Tanner and his friend," Bockwoldt said. "Really it was a great experience for all the players who just did what we love with these kids."

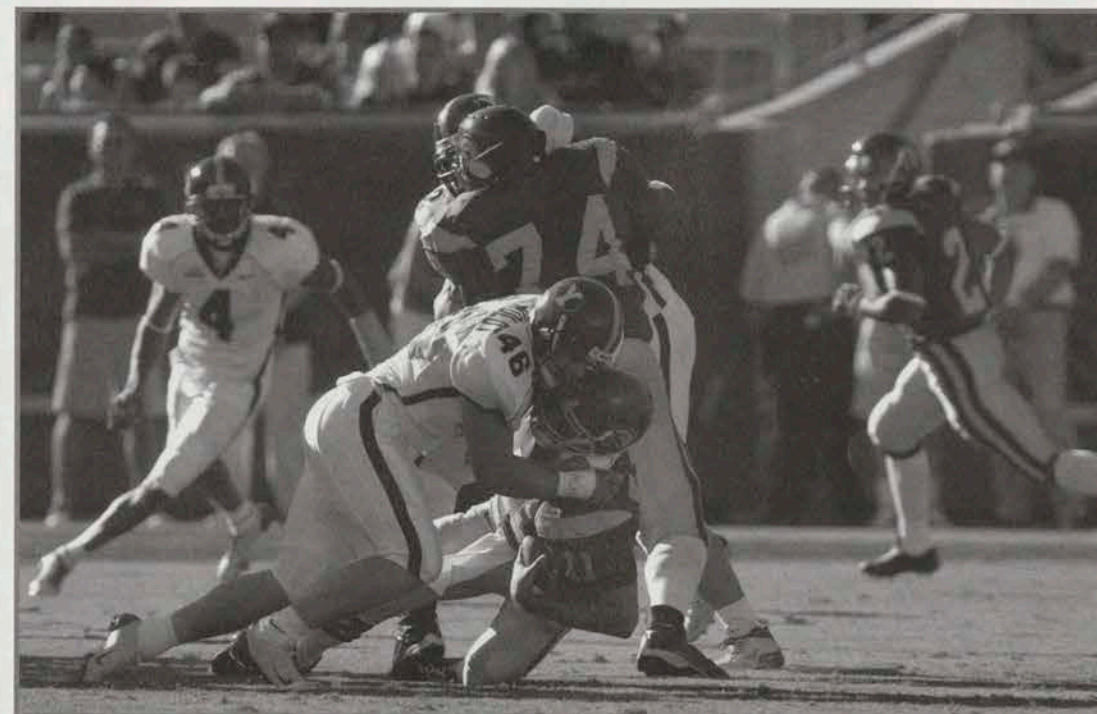

From that day, on Colby and Tanner have developed a deep relationship. "At Lavell's [Coach Edwards] last home game before he retired, Kathy came up to me and told me I was her son's favorite player because I was a fast football player," Bockwoldt said. "It is amazing how kids look up to BYU football players. It really is the greatest compliment."

Colby didn't just run into that situation, but took advantage of a boring foot ball media day, turning it into a positive experience to bless the lives of others.

Senior all-conference candidate Colby Bockwoldt works to add a fourth BYU sack against USC quarterback Matt Leinart in game two, Sept. 6, 2003. As an outside linebacker, Bockwoldt has contributed speed, leadership and his vast range of experiences on and off the field to lead the Cougar defense to one of the top in the Mountain West Conference.

"You know, in life you learn to make the best of every situation," Bockwoldt said. "Sure that might take some work, but it means that really you are happier in the end."

Difficult Seasons and Transitions: In BYU football history, Bockwoldt will be known as one of the privileged few to play under both coaching legend Lavell Edwards and current football coach Gary Crowton.

"It truly has been an honor to play under these two men," Bockwoldt said. "Coach Edwards was a players' coach, while Crowton is a traditional football coach. But despite their differences I have been able to work hard with the two styles of coaching and learn from both of them."

Not only has Colby been there for the coaching transition, but he has also been there for the stark differences in seasons BYU football has experienced in the past few years.

Colby was there for the excitement and success of Lavell's last season in 2000. He was there for the record-setting 2001 championships season with Crowton at the helm and big names like Luke Staley and Brandon Doman. He helped the team in 2002 try to fill the big expectations of the year before and has desperately tried to help the team this season in its struggles to win.

Despite the ups and downs of the seasons, Colby said the greatest lesson he has learned is that you learn from the past, but you don't dwell on it, you move on to the present.

"You can't do anything about the games we have lost this season," Bockwoldt said. "Everyone does some things that aren't perfect, but you learn to move on and do something about it in the future."

Colby's goals this season have been to contribute to the defense of the game and to help the team win.

"When I play good defense, my team does so as well," Bockwoldt said. "It is like a ripple affect that eventually the team will play well, too."

Overall, Colby remains hard working.

"I personally have had some minor injuries, but you just don't mind getting hurt," Bockwoldt said. "Really, when you play long enough, you get hurt. I have just been extremely fortunate to not have gotten seriously injured yet."

In the game against Colorado State, Colby's leg split open requiring 23 stitches to sew it up.

"It really isn't that big of a deal," Bockwoldt said. "You learn to get hurt and just play and cross your fingers that it is not enough to keep you out of the game."

Colby has learned that lesson well. Despite his 23 stitches, he was in the game again the next possible series.

On and Off the Football Field: One of the most demanding things a student athlete has to face is finding the balance between being a full-time student and a full-time athlete.

"Sure it is hard to be an athlete and a football player but I think it makes me more focused and makes me use my time better," Bockwoldt said. "Every day is very structured between school, football and spending time with my wife, and you just learn that balance."

In addition to his hard work on the football field, Colby is also hard working in other aspects of his life.

"I really am not the smartest kid," Bockwoldt said. "I have to work hard just as everyone else does to do well in school."

As a facilities management major, Bockwoldt works hard.

"The great part for me about being a student athlete is that I get to work hard in many different areas of life. I have learned to work hard where I am at the moment," Bockwoldt said. "When I step out on that football field I am there; it is all about the game."

Colby said he values his time off the field as much as on it.

"I have learned that school and the relationships I have with people are just as important as the things I do on the football field," Bockwoldt said. "Those things are what you are going to have when football is gone."

Because of this belief, Colby works hard to develop the relationships he has with other people, particularly his relationship with his wife.

"One of the best things I have ever done is marry my high school sweetheart, Ashley, in July 2002," Bockwoldt said. "It is so great to be married. My wife and I dated for five years before we actually got married."

Although this life sounds easy, Colby said he had to win her hand even after five years.

"I had to work hard to first keep her as my girlfriend and then to convince her to marry me," Bockwoldt said.

Colby said one of the best things about playing football married is he gets to go home to a beautiful wife.

"Really focusing on developing the different aspects of my life off the field only contributes to my success on the field," Bockwoldt said.

In an effort to instill that principle, this spring the football team tried something new. In addition to regular practices and training this summer, the team participated in a team triathlon.

"I never thought in my wildest dreams that I would be competing in a triathlon," Bockwoldt said.

Together the team trained to swim, bike and run their way to the finish line.

"To finish that was probably one of the hardest things I have ever had to do in my life," Bockwoldt said. "Together as a team we learned what it meant to not only finish, but finish strong."

Colby swam, biked and ran with fellow starting linebacker Mike Tanner.

"You can imagine these big football players all trying to compete in this event," Bockwoldt said. "It could almost be comedy. But it taught us what hard work was. We just focused on finishing. And finish we did, eight hours and 30 minutes later."

For Colby, this was a highlight of his football career at BYU.

"You know this was off the field, but it prepared me for the field and really for this season to come," Bockwoldt said. "This was a great memory because it made me work hard. By working hard I appreciated so much more the joy of being on top of Sundance, finishing what I started."

Life after football: For Colby, tonight he will finish what he started at BYU. This is the last regular season game of his college career. But because of his hard working character, there is life after football.

"Yeah, I plan to move to the next level," Bockwoldt said. "I feel like I have to at least try and really there is not going to be any other time in my life where I would be in this physical state to play."

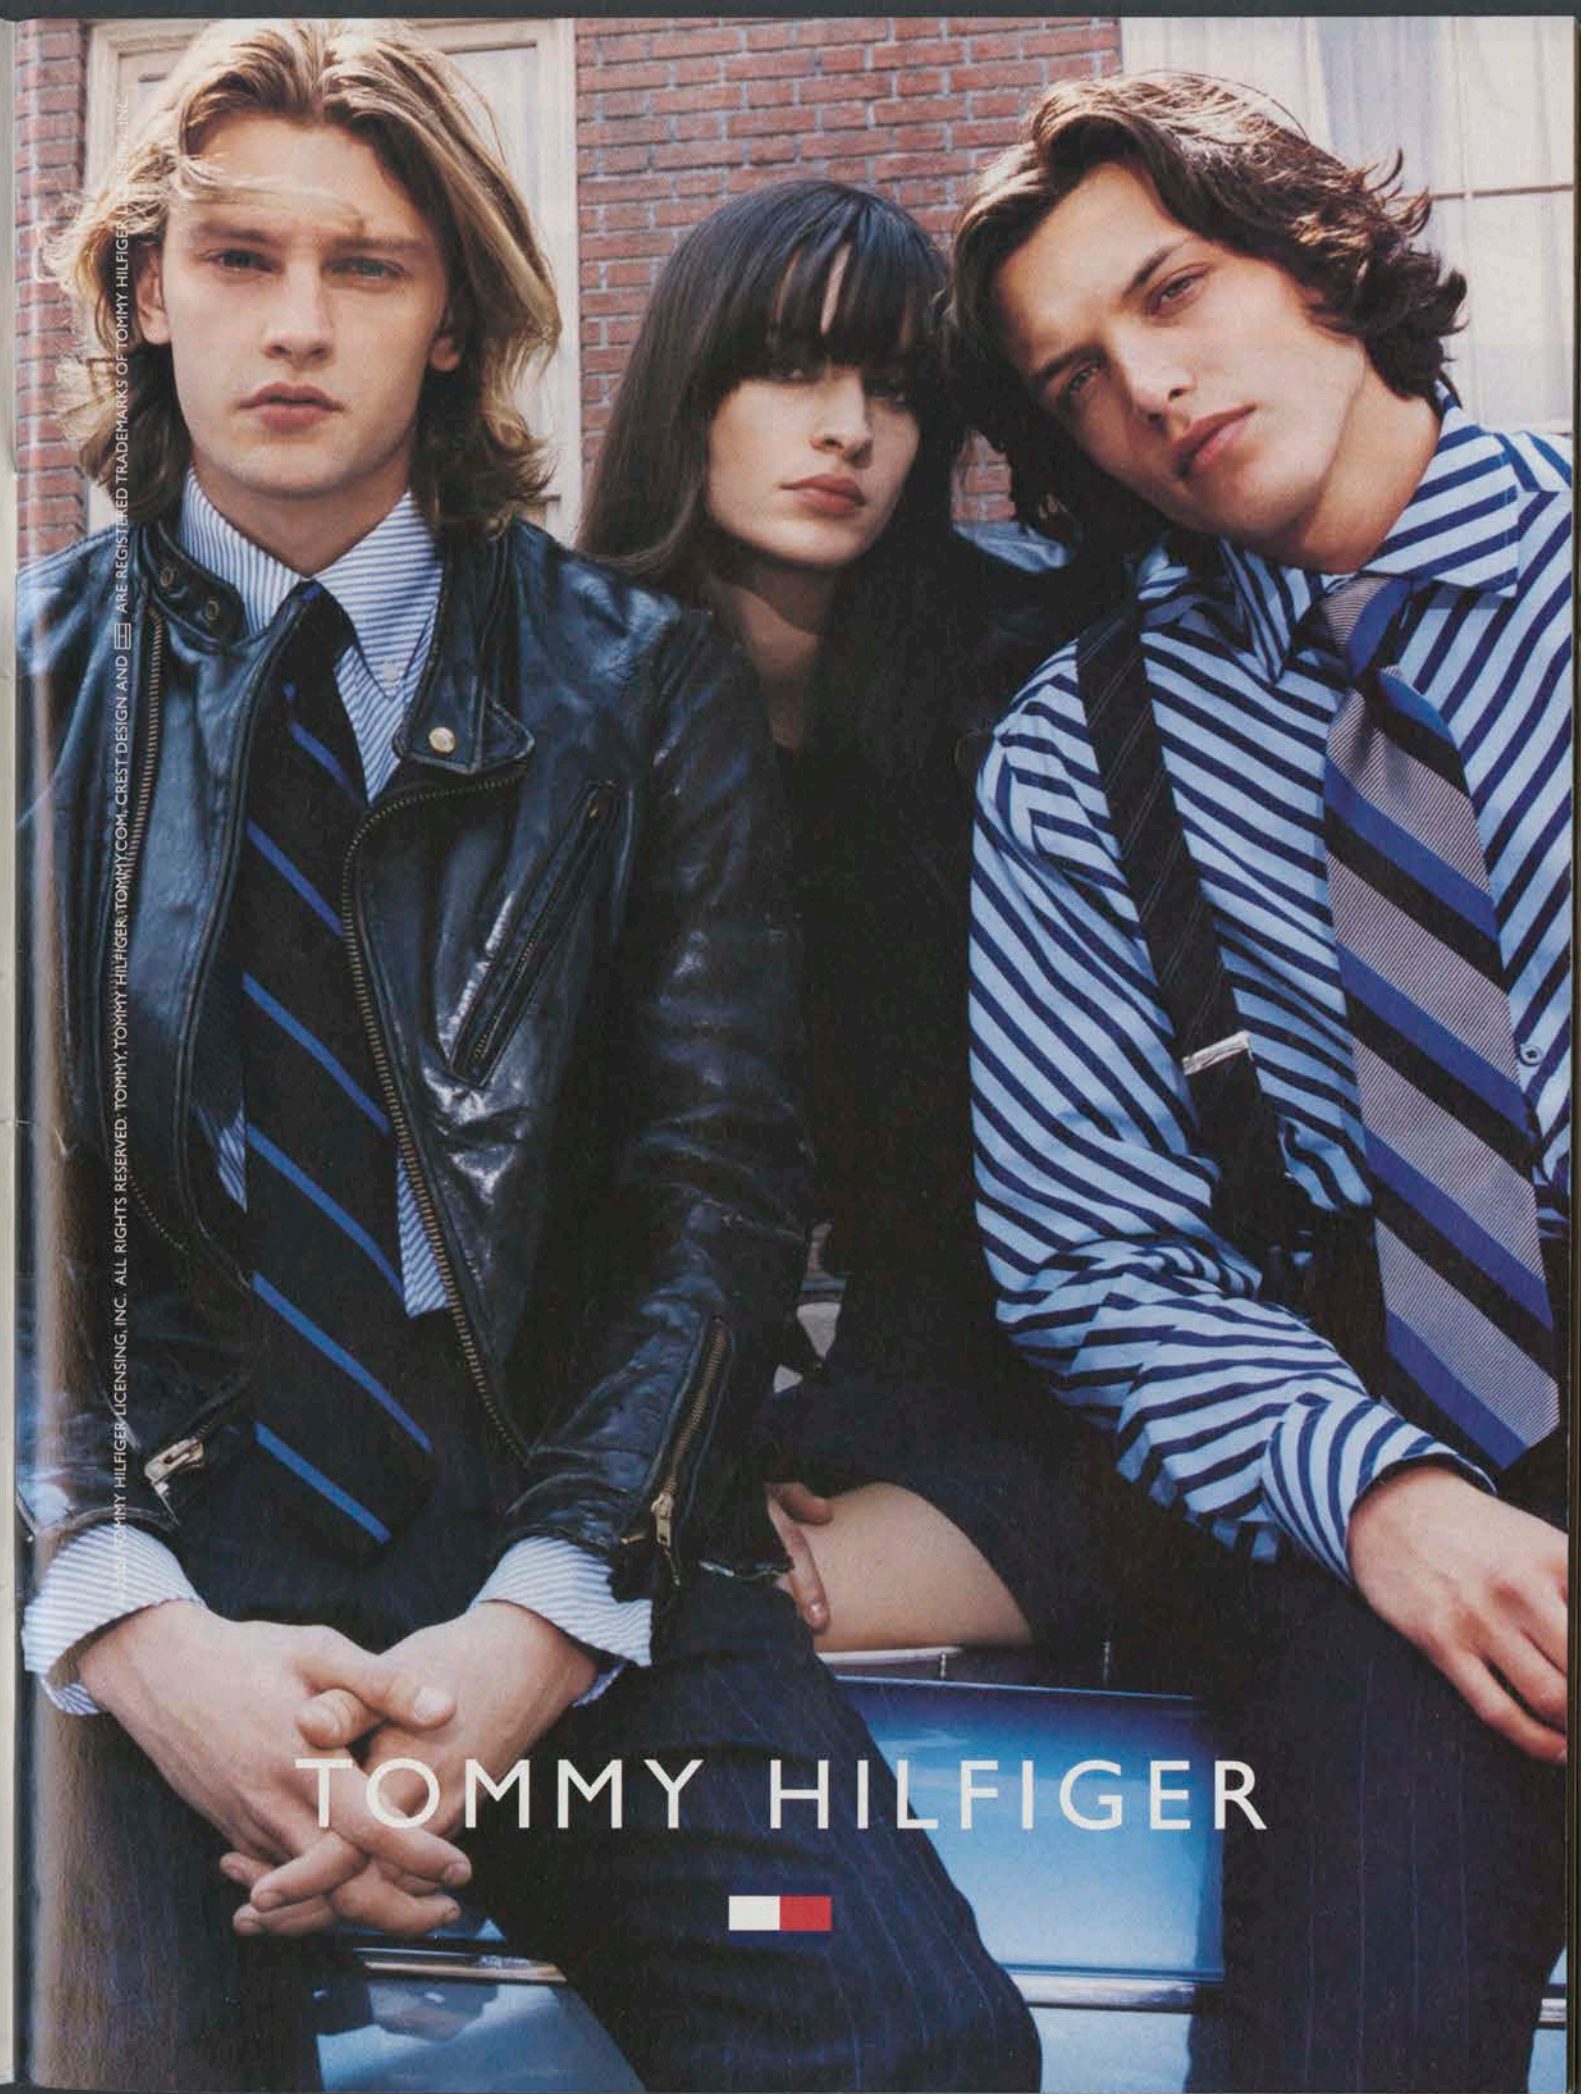

But for Colby, not getting a stint in the NFL would not be a big deal.

"I have worked hard to prepare well," Bockwoldt said. "I have my education and the relationships I have worked to build with others to fall back on, and so I am not worried. No matter what situation I find myself in, I will work hard and it will all work out right."

Surrounded by mountains, Provo is at the heart of Utah Valley with a combined population of over 365,000. Utah Valley is framed by the 23 mile-long Utah Lake on the west and 11,754-foot Mount Timpanogos on the east. The campus is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

EXCELLENT LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

From business management to nursing, from the humanities to engineering, the university's 11 colleges—supported by comprehensive offerings from Religious Education—continue to be internationally recognized for the quality of their education and the professional preparation they provide. In addition to the challenging course work and hands-on research, numerous programs offer academic and service outreach opportunities. Study-abroad centers, distance-learning courses, and worldwide performing-arts tours are a few of the offerings that enrich BYU's academic experience.

OUTSTANDING STUDENT BODY

BYU students arrive with superb preparation. The entering class has an average high school GPA of 3.76 (on a 4.0 scale) and an ACT score of 27. The university consistently places in the top 20 for enrollment of National Merit Scholars. In addition to their academic excellence, students bring and share high values and ideals. Students come to BYU from all 50 states and more than 130 countries, bringing many international cultures and experiences to the campus. Nearly half of these scholars have lived outside the United States, and 72 percent are fluent in at least two languages. The variety of cultures and backgrounds, coupled with an institutional commitment to the gospel of Jesus Christ, adds to an already rich academic experience that challenges the mind while feeding the spirit.

DISTINGUISHED FACULTY

Faculty members hold advanced degrees from universities around the world. Their achievements are compelling and broad-ranging as they pursue consequential research-work that is making a real difference. Alleviating hunger worldwide through more efficient agriculture, finding low-pollution energy alternatives, and making significant contributions to the strengthening of families are among their many pursuits. Faculty members are regularly called upon to head national and international professional organizations and to consult with corporate and governmental entities. Above all, these high-principled men and women share an unmatched devotion to bringing the best possible education to their students.

BYU students have access to a wide range of technology products, services and support through the use of on-campus ethernet connections and Technology Enhanced Classrooms (TEC Rooms). Both the law and business schools require students to own laptops. Potential and current students have access to electronic application for admission, online transcripts, registration and course schedules.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

VAL HALE

Now in his fifth year as BYU's athletic director, Val Hale has overseen one of the most ambitious fund raising and building projects in the history of BYU Athletics.

The long-awaited Indoor Practice Facility and Student Athlete Center are scheduled to open this fall after an intense fund raising campaign and planning process. In addition, Hale was instrumental in the building of Miller Park, the artificial turf outdoor football practice area, and improvements at the Riverside Country Club driving range.

Another key responsibility that has fallen on Hale's shoulders has been hiring several new head coaches who replaced legends. Most visible has been Gary Crowton, who took over for LaVell Edwards and won a conference championship in his first season. Vance Law has done a great job with the baseball team, earning back-to-back NCAA trips. Mark Robison and Ed Eyestone have continued the winning tradition of the track and cross-country programs. Tom Peterson took the volleyball program to the NCAA championship match in his first season. Hale also recruited Strength and Conditioning Coach Jay Omer away from Georgia Tech to join the Cougar staff. The most recent coach hired by Hale is Brad Pearce to replace the legendary Jim Osborne, who retired as men's tennis coach last season.

Prior to his appointment in 1999, Hale served 10 years as an assistant and associate athletic director for external affairs. He had responsibility over athletic media relations and promotional/marketing efforts.

Hale worked two years in fund raising, serving as assistant director of annual giving and assistant director of development. He was promotions and publications coordinator for the athletic department from 1982-87.

Hale has been active in church and civic responsibilities. He is past president of the Utah Chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, Inc., and was a founding board member of the Utah Tipoff Club. He serves on the executive committee of the Utah Sports Commission and serves as chair of the NCAA Men's Golf Committee.

Hale was an all-region football player and track athlete at Orem High School. He played one year of junior varsity football at BYU in 1975 before serving an LDS mission to Santiago, Chile, from 1976-78. He was a cum laude graduate at BYU in 1981 and received his M.A. degree from BYU in communications in 1987. He married Nancy Allred, and they have three children: Chris, returned prior to last season from a mission in Ecuador and in his third year as a BYU wide receiver; Brandon, currently serving a mission to McAllen, Texas; and Rachel, a BYU student.

GARY CROWTON

HEAD COACH

Third-year Coach Gary Crowton knows how to drive defenses crazy with his potent offense. This season Crowton has retooled the BYU defense in an effort to retain upper echelon standing.

In five seasons as a head coach, Crowton has posted a 38-17 (.691) career mark, including a 12-2 record in 2001—his first season at BYU. For his first-year efforts at BYU, including 10 straight victories to start that campaign, he was named the Mountain West Conference Coach of the Year as the Cougars won their first-ever, outright MWC championship.

Crowton, the former offensive coordinator for the Chicago Bears and previous head coach at Louisiana Tech, was introduced by BYU President Merrill J. Bateman in December, 2000 as the 13th head football coach for the Cougars. Crowton, a native of Orem, Utah, took over a BYU program that had been under the direction of LaVell Edwards, college football's sixth all-time winningest coach. Edwards took over the program in 1972, coaching the Cougars to a 257-101-3 (.716) record over 29 seasons.

Crowton, 46, came to BYU with a long and proven list of coaching accomplishments. Prior to serving as the offensive coordinator with the NFL's Chicago Bears, where his offense ranked third in the NFL in passing yardage during the 1999 season, Crowton was head coach at Louisiana Tech from 1996-1998. There he guided the Bulldogs to a 21-13 (.618) record over three seasons, including a 9-2 mark in 1997.

"Gary is a very articulate, hard-working football coach and will do a great job," Edwards said. "He has an excellent understanding of the game. From the opportunities I have had to work with Gary, I've always known he had the potential to be a very good coach. Everyone he's worked with has given him a glowing report."

Competing as an independent for three straight years, Louisiana Tech recorded wins over the likes of Mississippi State, Cal and Alabama. Using its Crowton-designed, high-powered offense, the program also recorded impressive wins by scoring 50-or-more points against eight different opponents, including games of 60-or-more points in five different games. Crowton's offense ranked third in the nation, both in passing and total offense, while the Bulldogs racked up 12,746 yards passing in three years, an average of 4,249 yards per season. The prolific Tech offense also produced 115 touchdown receptions, averaging 38.3 TDs per season.

Under Crowton, NFL first-round draft pick Troy Edwards recorded a Tech-record 280 receptions and 4,352 yards receiving. Over a span of 34 games, Crowton's offense at Louisiana Tech engineered 22 different 300-yard passing games, including school-record 10, 300-yard outings during the 1998 season. In 1998, Crowton's final season at Louisiana Tech, the Bulldogs combined for a school record 4,943 yards passing.

"Our hope is that the experiences the players have in our program will help make them positive contributors to society when they leave BYU."

—Head Coach Gary Crowton

Crowton was an all-league quarterback at Orem High School before earning All-American honors at Snow College. Crowton transferred to Colorado State, where he finished his career. Following an LDS Church mission to South Korea, Crowton attended Idaho State, where he ran track for the Bengals. After returning to BYU in 1982, Crowton earned his bachelor's degree in physical education in 1983.

Crowton, who is the first-ever head football coach at BYU to serve an LDS Church mission, is married to the former Maren Peterson of Bountiful, Utah. The couple was married on August 3, 1985. The Crowtons have seven children, including Dane (15), Tara (14), Jenessa (11), Quinn (8), Mikauli (6) Toriana (2) and Macloud (infant).

"The most important things in my life are my family and my church," Crowton said. "It is a great feeling to know no matter what happens on the field, I will always have my family to be there, and it's always a nice feeling to go home to my family."

Crowton's coaching career actually began in 1982 as a student assistant under Edwards at BYU. While at BYU, he worked with current Seattle Seahawks head coach Mike Holmgren and future NFL Hall of Famer, Steve Young. From BYU, Crowton moved on to Snow College in Ephraim, Utah, where he coached from 1983-86. While at Snow College, Crowton moved from defensive backs coach to offensive coordinator. Under his offensive leadership, the Badgers won the National Junior College Athletic Association National Championship in 1985.

From Snow College, Crowton moved to Western Illinois, where he directed the Leathernecks' passing game for a single season. In 1988, Crowton was hired as the offensive coordinator at New Hampshire, where the Wildcats were the top-rated passing team in the Yankee Conference from 1988-90.

In 1991, Crowton was hired as the quarterback coach at Boston College under head coach Tom Coughlin. There he helped develop quarterback Glenn Foley as a candidate for the Heisman Trophy. After three successful seasons with the Eagles, Crowton was hired as the co-offensive coordinator at Georgia Tech, where his offense led the Yellow Jackets to a No. 21 national ranking in his first and only season in Atlanta. In 1995, Crowton was hired as the offensive coordinator at Louisiana Tech, where he would become the head coach the following season.

Gridiron presents INNOVATION

By Michael Bradley

Ever since the earliest days of college football, teams with the most innovative schemes have been successful. From Notre Dame's creative use of the forward pass in 1913 against Army to the development of the T-formation a couple decades later, the sharpest ideas off the field have led to victories on it.

ON THE GROUND

Before the 1968 season, Texas backfield coach Emory Bellard was faced with a glut of talent at the running back position. So, he devised a formation that allowed him to use his top three ball carriers at the same time. The offense was dubbed "the wishbone" by head coach Darrell Royal, and it soon became the scourge of college football. UT rolled to a 9-1-1 record that year, averaging 331.5 yards per game on the ground.

The following season was even better. With Steve "Woo-Woo" Worster, Jim Bertelsen and Ted Koy running behind shifty quarterback James Street, Texas piled up 363.0 yards on the ground each Saturday and posted a perfect 10-0 regular-season record. Their final win came against Arkansas, 15-14, in one of the greatest games in college football history. Texas then defeated Notre Dame, 21-17 to clinch its second-ever national title and make the wishbone part of the college game for decades to come.

THROUGH THE AIR

By the mid-70s, Brigham Young coach LaVell Edwards decided that the best way to move the football quickly was through the air—often. He turned what had been a pretty productive passing attack into a full-fledged aerial circus. By the early 1980s, BYU quarterbacks were launching 40 passes a game and piling up the victories. But nobody took BYU all that seriously, until 1984.

That season, Brigham Young rolled up a 12-0 regular-season record behind junior Robbie Bosco, who threw for 3,875 yards and 33 touchdowns. BYU vaulted to the top of the rankings and headed to their bowl game to face Michigan, which traditionally had a stiff defense. Beat Michigan, skeptics said, and we'll talk. So, BYU did just that. Bosco threw for 371 yards and two touchdowns, both coming in the final quarter. Brigham Young won, 24-17, was voted national champion and showed the college football world that living by the pass was quite a good life, indeed.

OH YEAH, TAKE THAT!

BYU's success in 1984 started a trend that led many teams to spread the field and throw the ball. Often, defenses were helpless against such assaults. By the late '80s, coaches were desperate. In Miami, Dennis Erickson had an idea. He started to match speed with speed, moving his defensive backs to linebacker and his linebackers to the end positions up front. The thought was that offenses that were under too much pressure from fleet-footed rivals couldn't get started.

It was sound thinking. In 1991, Miami was overwhelming. Opponents could barely take a snap before being snowed under by a green-and-orange avalanche. Miami allowed just 9.1 points per game during their 11-0 regular season. In their bowl game against Big Eight champ Nebraska, Miami was positively ruthless, forcing four turnovers and sacking Nebraska signal-callers five times in a 22-0 win to claim the national championship. Miami won the title, thanks to its innovative defensive strategy.

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

ENROLLMENT 28,300

Salt Lake City, home to the University of Utah, is one of the most beautiful and vibrant cities in America.

Its location between two magnificent mountain ranges made Salt Lake City the natural choice to host the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

With 174,348 residents, Salt Lake City is the largest city in the state. Cited as one of the safest large cities in the world by the FBI in its report, "Crime in the United States, 2002," Salt Lake City's metro population ranks 36th in the nation (1,333,914). Its scenery, location, economic strength, cultural and recreational opportunities and accessibility to the world help Salt Lake City attract major events like the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

Surrounded by awe-inspiring geographical landmarks, Salt Lake City offers majestic views in all directions. To the east are the 11,500-foot peaks of the Wasatch Mountains ("mountains of many waters," as named by the Paiute Indians), the western-most Rocky Mountain range. To the west soar the Oquirrh Mountains (pronounced Oaker and meaning "the shining mountains"). In between is the Great Salt Lake, also known as America's Dead Sea. It is the world's second largest saltwater lake and is nine times saltier than an ocean.

Salt Lake's economy matches its natural wonders in impressiveness. City and State, which is published for local government officials, ranked Salt Lake No. 1 among 195 cities in terms of economic strength. Salt Lake is the financial, educational, distribution, warehousing, commercial, cultural and communications hub of the Intermountain region. It is the center to world-renowned medical and technological industries. Of the 50 states, Utah has the second-largest concentration of computer software firms, one of the four largest concentrations of biomedical firms and 450 high tech firms employing 13,000 people. Sixty-percent of Salt Lake City households own at least one computer, making it the most "wired" city in the nation.

Tourism is also a big employer. Skiing is a $500 million annual industry in Utah and most of those dollars are generated in the Salt Lake area. The 2002 Winter Olympics added millions of dollars to the Salt Lake economy. Seven world-class ski resorts are located within 30 minutes of Salt Lake International Airport and downtown Salt Lake, with another four less than an hour's drive away.

Cultural and ethnic activities flourish in Salt Lake City. Fifteen art galleries are located in the downtown, alone. Salt Lake has more professional dance companies than any city but New York City and also boasts professional symphony, opera and theater. It is a stopover for numerous Broadway shows, as well as ethnic festivals throughout the year. Some of these annual festivals include the Blues Festival, Greek Festival, Hispanic Fiesta Days, Bluegrass Festival and Living Traditions Festival.

Of Salt Lake's ethnic population, Hispanic, Native American and Asian/Pacific residents are found in greater numbers than the national average, while the African-American community is dynamic and growing.

Professional sports are big in Salt Lake City, with a National Basketball Association franchise (the Utah Jazz), Triple A baseball (the Salt Lake Stingers) and AHL hockey (the Utah Grizzlies).

COACH URBAN MEYER (CINCINNATI, 1986)

First-year Coach Urban Meyer brought a 17-6 overall record into this season.

Meyer, 39, was head coach the past two seasons at Bowling Green (Ohio) and succeeded Ron McBride. From 1996-00 he was an assistant at Notre Dame. From 1990-95 he was an assistant at Colorado State. From 1988-89 he was an assistant at Illinois State.

At Bowling Green he engineered the top turnaround in NCAA Division I-A, a six-win improvement from the previous season. He was named ESPN.com National Coach of the Week in 2001 after beating Missouri and Buffalo. The past two seasons his teams have been in the national rankings. He has coached teams in the Cotton, Freedom, Holiday (twice), Independence, Gator and Fiesta Bowls

He was a 13th-round draft of the Atlanta Braves in 1982 and played two years in that organization. He was a defensive back at the University of Cincinnati and went on to get his master's in sports administration at Ohio State in 1988.

The native of Ashtabula, Ohio is married to the former Shelley Mathew and they have three children: Nicole, Gigi and Nathan.

COUGAR SPIRIT

POWER OF THE WASATCH

Texas has the "Showband of the Southwest" with its "Big Bertha" bass drum, Alabama has its "Million Dollar Marching Band," and BYU has its marching band known as the "Power of the Wasatch."

Bands and music have been a big part of BYU's College of Fine Arts and Communications which begins celebrating its 75th anniversary this Fall. Band at BYU began in 1908 through its director, Robert Sauer, who wrote the renowned tune When It's Springtime in the Rockies.

The Marching Band then took root by 1943 through the ROTC on the BYU campus under the direction of John Halliday, Norman Hunt and Ralph Laycock. After the first nationally televised football game on ABC on Thanksgiving Day in 1953 when BYU lost to the University of Utah, 33-32, the Cougar Marching Band emerged under the direction of Rich Ballou and the first drum major, Grant Elkington.

Elkington succeeded Ballou as director of the BYU Marching Band. Then Bruce Bastian, now of WordPerfect fame, Dan Bachelder and David Blackinton took turns directing the Cougar Marching Band.

The "Power of the Wasatch" is under the direction of Dr. Don Peterson, who is in his 18th year leading the Cougar Marching Band. Assistant Director Fred McInnis, also the drumline instructor, begins his second year with BYU. For the second consecutive year, the color guard is under the direction of Karla Tanner. The band is led onto the field by drum majors Sarah Madsen of Logan, Shayla Edwards from Richmond, Va., and Chris Remberg from Boise, Idaho. The voice of the Cougar Marching Band is KSL Sports Personality and former Cougar Band member, Scott Miller.

The 225-member Cougar Marching Band thrills audiences with the sound, pageantry and excitement in its performance. Band rehearsals begin one week before the start of Fall Semester when they begin learning the fundamentals and prepare for the first halftime and pre-game show. Auditions are held through spring or early summer and can be completed in person or by tape recording (except Color Guard). Rehearsals are on the black asphalt of the Marriott Center parking lot three days a week from 4-6 p.m.

The drum line's Yamaha natural finished drums are one of only two sets in the United States. For 21 of the past 26 years the band has performed at a bowl game. The BYU band also marched down Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, D.C., as it performed the 1972 inauguration of President Richard Nixon.

THE COUGAR SONG

Penned in 1932 by Clyde D. Sandgren, The Cougar Song is the anthem of BYU sports. Sung after each touchdown and field goal at football games, its words can frequently be heard ringing out across Utah Valley on Saturday afternoons in the fall. Traditionally, fans remain seated through the first verse and then stand, chant and shout through the chorus. Carried by 65,000 voices, The Cougar Song can be an intimidating musical number to an opposing team.

Although written and composed in 1932, the song was not copyrighted and presented to the University until 1947. In addition to The Cougar Song, Sandgren wrote and composed The Old 'Y' Bell which was sung at the dedication of the upper-campus bell tower that housed the Victory Bell before it was moved to its current location outside the Marriott Center.

A 1937 graduate of BYU, Sandgren went on to obtain a law degree from St. John's University. He then became a partner of the New York law firm Burroughs and Brown until 1947, when he decided to return to Provo to establish his own law practice. Sandgren later served as general counsel and vice president of BYU. Although he passed away in 1989, Sandgren's memory lives on through the voices of Cougar fans across the nation.

THE COUGAR SONG

*Rise, all loyal Cougars and hurl your challenge to the foe.
You will fight day or night, rain or snow.
Loyal, strong and true.
Wear the white and blue.
While we sing get set to spring, Come on Cougars, it's up to you.
Oh! Rise and shout, the Cougars are out along the trail to fame and glory.
Rise and shout, our cheers will ring out as you unfold your vict'ry story.
On you go to vanquish the foe for Alma Mater's sons and daughters.
As we join in song
In praise of you
Our faith is strong
We'll raise our colors high in the blue and cheer our Cougars of B.Y.U.*

"Y" MOUNTAIN

The most visible symbol of BYU spirit is found high in the mountains east of Brigham Young University. The enormous block letter "Y" measures 465 feet high and is acclaimed as the largest sign in the country.

Preparations for placing the initials BYU on the mountain-side began in April of 1906 when president George H. Brimhall commissioned surveyors for the letters "B," "Y" and "U." The letter "Y" was first laid out to insure that the initials were properly centered on the mountain. Officials expected to complete laying out all three letters by 10 a.m. By 4 p.m., only the Y was covered. After such a laborious day of work, plans to fill in the other two letters were scrapped.

Five times a year Y Mountain flares to life. The Intercollegiate Knights, a club dedicated to chivalrous principles and maintaining traditions, string a cord of lights around the border of the Y for Freshman Orientation, Homecoming, Y Days, and April and August graduations.

COSMO THE COUGAR

Another generator of BYU spirit is BYU's mascot, Cosmo the Cougar. Cosmo the Cougar, the brainchild of then-pep chairman Dwayne Stevenson, made his first official appearance before BYU fans on October 15, 1953. At a cost of 73 dollars for the costume, Daniel T. Gallego, Stevenson's roommate, became the first man under the fur. The name Cosmo was derived from BYU's diverse student body.

BYU purchased a pair of cougar cubs for 50 cents each in 1924 to excite BYU fans at athletic events. Live cougars prowled the sidelines of BYU games on a regular basis through the late 40s and on special occasions through the '60s.

The original cubs were housed on the south side of campus until 1929 when they managed to break out of their cage, kill two dogs and began stalking livestock on nearby farms. Both were recaptured later the same day. One Cougar died, apparently from natural causes, three weeks later and the other was taken to the old Salt Lake Zoo. From then on, BYU procured its mascots from nearby zoos and local bounty hunters but never owned its own cougars again.

THE CHEERLEADERS

Imagine an athletic team consisting of both women and men athletes who practice three hours a day, three days a week for the sole purpose of enhancing the efforts of other athletic teams.

The squad has proven their talents, winning a second place finish in the national competition in both 1997 and 1998. Basketball season is another time to shine, as they dance during time outs.

BYU COUGARETTES

Named one of the top 25 dance teams in the nation by Dance Spirit Magazine, the Cougarettes have earned national respect on the dance floor by claiming the National Collegiate Dance Team title in 1997, 1998, 1999 and again in 2001. They missed a five-year reign as national champions in 2000 by .02 points, finishing second. The Cougarettes have been credited with raising the level of competitive collegiate dance teams to a new and respected level.

Much to the relief of dance teams at other universities, the Cougarettes opted out of national competition in 2002, choosing instead to perform in front of an international audience at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City.

Established in 1946, the Cougarettes became a part of BYU's athletic tradition in 2000 when they began working with the cheer squad at football and basketball games to enhance the overall game-day experience at BYU. Each year, more than 100 girls try out for this elite team of entertainers. Once the team has been pared down to around 16 dancers, the Cougarettes tackle a rigorous practice regimen that includes strength and flexibility training to prepare them for their performances at games, concerts and other special presentations, as well as choreographing their routines.

STEVE SMILANICH BEEHIVE BOOT

The Beehive Boot is awarded to the team with the best record against the five in-state schools: BYU, Utah, Utah State, Weber State, and Southern Utah University. It is named after the late Utah sportswriter and originated in 1971. In case of a deadlock, the award is determined by ballot of the news media covering the games (such was the case in 1973 and 1977). The boot, estimated to be over 130 years old, is a real pioneer trophy from Cache Valley. BYU has won the trophy 19 times and is the defending champion.

THE OLD WAGON WHEEL

The Old Wagon Wheel trophy stands four-feet high and is a steel-rimmed wooden wheel off an ancient covered wagon. It became a part of the BYU-Utah State rivalry in 1948 and was the idea of the Blue Key fraternities of the two schools.

Although Utah State dominated the early years of the wheel's existence, taking 18 of the first 27 victories where the wheel was at stake, the tables have turned in recent decades as the BYU football team has taken its place among college football's elite. The series now stands 30-21 in favor of the Cougars.

GEORGE Q. CANNON

After each Cougar score the canon is fired by members of the BYU Army ROTC.

The canon takes its name from a pioneer church leader, George Q. Cannon. The 75mm Howitzer is in its fourth year firing after BYU scores.

LIGHTING THE 'Y'

Prior to each Cougar football game, a noted benefactor of BYU symbolically lights an electronic Y on the scoreboard following a script read by the public address announcer. Before the 1982 stadium expansion, the designate actually lit the Y flame in the north endzone with a torch.

THE OLD 'Y' BELL

Rung after each home victory in football and basketball, by the Intercollegiate Knights, the BYU Victory Bell is located on the southwest corner of the Marriott Center.

The original Y Bell traveled across the plains with the early pioneers of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and was used to call meetings among the saints and to announce any deaths in the community.

Donated to the Brigham Young Academy in 1875, it was used to begin and dismiss classes until it was destroyed in a fire in 1884. The Academy went without a bell for the next 28 years, using instead a variety of instruments as a class bell.

BYA became BYU in 1903 as the student body continued to grow and further increased the need for a bell on campus. In 1912, a 36-inch diameter cast iron bell was purchased from the American Bell Foundry in Michigan. This bell was disappointing as a victory bell since it could barely be heard outside of the building it was housed in. Replaced in 1919 with a nickel bell donated by the Utah Stake presidency from the Provo Meeting House, the old cast-iron bell was given to the Boy Scouts of America. The new nickel bell was placed on campus in the education building belfry and the tradition of the Y Victory Bell officially got underway.

Rung after each BYU victory, the bell was quieted in 1949 after a basketball win over rival Utah. Several overzealous students climbed the tower and vigorously beat upon the bell until it cracked. Repaired with a bronze patch in 1954 by Frank Hemingway, the bell was removed from the education building and mounted on a trailer so it could travel with BYU's teams to away games.

Its mobility proved its downfall as it was stolen in 1958, to be found six months later in a field in Springville, Utah. The theft prompted the construction of a bell tower on BYU's upper-campus overlooking the Smith Fieldhouse. Dedicated in 1959, the tower served well until 1973 when the bell fell while ringing in the dedication of the Marriott Center. Although the old bell tower above the Smith Fieldhouse no longer stands, the massive steel I beams that supported the tower have now been converted into the strongest park benches in the Intermountain West.

In 1978, the bell was moved to its current home on the southwest corner of the Marriott Center.

RIVALRY WEEK

The Cougars have come a long way since going 4-32-4 against Utah in the first 40 years of the rivalry. Since 1965, BYU has won 23 games to Utah's 12. Naturally, the Cougars like to play at home, posting a 13-15-1 record in Provo compared to its 15-30-3 record at Utah.

The week before the game is played, both campuses compete in an annual food drive to see who can gather the most non-perishable goods. Sponsored by the alumni associations of each school, it culminates in a cooperative food drive at the game where money and food are accepted. The United Way receives the food and is responsible for its distribution.

Generally during the morning prior to the game, a joint team of Army ROTC units from both schools run the game ball in relay fashion, starting on the campus where the game is not played. The opposing team ROTC delivers the game ball on the field before kickoff. The game-ball relay is in its sixth year.

LAVELL EDWARDS

This December retired Coach LaVell Edwards and his wife Patti return from serving an 18 month mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in New York City.

Over 29 seasons, Edwards, now 72, built a football tradition at BYU making the most of each season. Edwards, a two-time NCAA national coach of the year and the sixth-winningest coach in NCAA history, taught his players and the nation what a passing offense truly was.

The Cougar offense passed 103,562 yards (about 59 miles) throughout Edward's 29 seasons as head coach. Edwards coached the Cougars to 20 conference championships, 22 post-season games and the national championship in 1984.

Edwards secured 13 top-25 finishes for BYU, including four top-ten seasons. He finished the 2000 season with the third most wins (257) and 47th-best winning percentage (.716), and currently sits in the No. 8 position on the all-time wins list at one school. He was named National Coach of the Year in 1979 and in 1984, when he led BYU to the National Championship.

With the Wasatch Mountains serving as a picturesque backdrop, LaVell Edwards Stadium is a great place for 64,000 fans to watch an event.

In November 2000, Church President Gordon B. Hinckley officially renamed Cougar Stadium as LaVell Edwards Stadium, home of the BYU Cougars. The Stadium is named after LaVell Edwards, BYU's coach who compiled a 257-101-3 record in 28 years with the Cougars.

NEW SEATING

This season marks the beginning of improved new chair-back seats in the east stands. The new club seats are in the east stands between the 25-yard lines. Three sections below the concourse were remodeled to provide premium chair seats. Legacy Club Seating is located between the 35-50 yard lines in section 34 has chair-back seats that provide additional width and leg room. These seats will come with a variety of amenities including, reserved parking, game program, and a hospitality area with food/beverages for pre-game, halftime and post-game. This new premium season ticket is available for $1,000 per seat in addition to a required annual Cougar Club donation (currently Golden Cougar and above).

These seats include reserved parking and a game program. This new premium season ticket is available for $500 per seat in addition to a required annual Cougar Club donation (currently Silver Cougar and above).

NEW LOCKERS

Now the LaVell Edwards Stadium home locker room recently had 84 new hardwood oak lockers installed. In the new lockers, a plaque will be placed with the team logo, the jersey number of the player using the locker that year and the saying 'Worn by Champions-Wear it with Pride' on it. Also, a list of names of those who have worn that particular number in the past and have contributed money to the new lockers will appear on the plaque. So far, over 120 former players have contributed to the lockers, Hale said.

THE FIELD

The field is covered with a sand-based natural turf capable of draining eight inches of rain per hour. The well-kept grass field is consistently deemed one of the best in the country.

THE EARLY YEARS

When BYU began its football program in 1896, pasture lands and city parks were the playing fields. In the early 1900's, a rocky field was cleared and a grandstand erected where the Joseph Smith Building now stands.

In 1928, the next Cougar playing field was built where the Stephen L. Richards Building now stands. By using the hillside for seating, the spectator accommodation was increased from a few hundred to 5,000.

As BYU football increased in popularity, the university was forced to find yet another location for a new stadium. Groundbreaking for the current stadium commenced in October of 1963. The initial seating capacity was set at 28,812 but soon increased to 35,000.

LAST EXPANSION

In 1982 a new press box was built and stands were added to the north and south end zones, lowering the field eight feet and removing the track surrounding the field (which hosted the 1967 and 1975 NCAA Track and Field Championships). The stadium expansions increased the seating capacity to over 65,000.

VIDEO SCOREBOARD

In 1996, a 23 x 31 foot video scoreboard wall, showing both live action and instant replays, was added above the stands by the south end zone. It features an animation board and sound system above the north stands.

OTHER EVENTS

Besides the regular season football games, LaVell Edwards Stadium is also used for a variety of other purposes. Music concerts have been hosted there as well as the annual "Stadium of Fire," the July 4th Spectacular held as part of America's Freedom Festival. High school playoff games and "the Rocky Mountain Band Competition" also include some of the competition on the field every year.

(1980) was also a longstanding member. Only UNLV, which joined the WAC during its expansion in 1996, was a newcomer.

The split from the former 16-team WAC signaled the end to an unwieldy nine-state, five-time zone conference. However, the Mountain West Conference has maintained its geographic diversity. Some of the most beautiful geography in the nation can be found within Mountain West Conference boundaries, including the unparalleled Rocky Mountain range, which borders four MWC schools (Utah, BYU, Air Force and Colorado State). The high plains of Wyoming (elevation 7,000 feet) contrast with the desert city of Las Vegas (the fastest growing metropolitan area in the West), the balmy weather and Pacific Ocean locale of San Diego State and the southwestern flavor of New Mexico.

The Conference officially began operations on July 1, 1999. Prior to opening its doors an executive committee was established and named Craig Thompson commissioner. Thompson had less than one-year to name the new league, settle on a city to serve as the league's headquarters, find a television partner, arrange for bowl tie-ins, hire staff, and develop a logo. Hence the Mountain West Conference was formed. Located in Colorado Springs, Colo., when the MWC's doors opened for business the new league had in place a seven-year contract with ESPN giving the broadcaster exclusive national television rights to MWC football and men's basketball.

From 1962 to 1999, BYU dominated the Western Athletic Conference, winning more championships than any other WAC School. Brigham Young University has also captured nine national championships.

In the four-year history of the MWC, the Cougars have won 47 of 76 conference championships—almost two-thirds of all championships awarded by the conference.

This season only one of the conference championship events will be contested in Utah, women's soccer on Nov. 5-8 in Salt Lake City. The MWC Basketball Tournament moves from Las Vegas to Denver, March 10-13.

Last season, BYU won 10 of 19 MWC Championships for the second year in a row while seven BYU teams finished the year in the nation's Top 25, helping the Cougars to a 45th place finish in the Sears Cup Standings. In 2000-2001, BYU won all but three conference championships (16 of 19).

The Mountain West Conference has agreements to send its league champion to the AXA Liberty Bowl (Dec. 31), number two pick to the Sega Sports Las Vegas Bowl (Dec. 24), and a third team to the San Francisco Bowl (Dec. 31).

The MWC was conceived on May 26, 1998, when eight teams announced they were breaking away from the Western Athletic Conference. Those teams—Air Force, Brigham Young, Colorado State, New Mexico, San Diego State, UNLV, Utah and Wyoming—brought immediate credibility to their new league.

From a team perspective, when the eight schools splintered off and created the Mountain West Conference, they took the backbone of the WAC with them. Half were charter members of the WAC when it was founded in 1962: Utah, BYU, New Mexico and Wyoming. Colorado State (1968) and San Diego State (1978) both competed as WAC members for at least two decades, while Air Force

COUGAR CLUB

With the donations and support of more than 5,000 members nationwide, the Cougar Club has helped BYU build one of America's strongest collegiate athletic programs. Through its fund-raising and promotional mission, the Cougar Club is ensuring the future success of BYU Athletics.

"The BYU donors and fans make all the difference," says Cougar Club Executive Director Michael Middleton. "For our teams to continue to achieve national prominence, the Cougar Club needs to continue to grow."

FUNDING

Cougar Club donations are used for many vital projects, including:

- Funding athletic recruiting to attract some of the world's premier athletes to Provo, Utah.
- Building new facilities including the Indoor Practice Facility and the Student Athlete Center.
- Supporting the Athletic Academic Center, including academic and post-eligibility scholarships.

MEMBER BENEFITS

There is a Cougar Club membership level for every fan who wants to help BYU continue its strong athletic tradition. Individuals and businesses annually make tax-deductible Cougar Club contributions of $50 and $1,000-based on their financial ability to give and the athletic benefits they want to receive. To acknowledge the generosity of club members, the athletic department makes a number of benefits available to club members, including priority seating, parking passes, and club events. However, the greatest benefit of membership is knowing that the Cougar Club is helping BYU Athletics to be one of the nation's top collegiate athletic programs.

THE LEGACY PROGRAM

In 1997, Cougar Club introduced the Legacy Program to further ensure BYU's continued athletic success. Legacy donors contribute a minimum of $10,000 (which can be given over three years); along with cash gifts, Legacy members also donate stocks, gift real estate, or include BYU Athletics in their will or trust. Additional athletic benefits available at Legacy levels include travel with BYU teams and exclusive parking and seating locations.

EVENTS

The Cougar Club sponsors many programs and events that build athletic loyalty among Cougar fans, BYU alumni, and other friends of the university. The Cougar Club annually sponsors more than 30 events for the enjoyment of club members, including:

- BYU Athletic Hall of Fame
- BYU Annual Athletic Awards Banquet
- Academic Athlete Banquet

- "Meet the Football Team" Watermelon Bust
- Men's Basketball Varsity Preview
- Pre-game activities before each home football game, a preview of the upcoming event and a delicious meal in the Cougar Room at LaVell Edwards Stadium
- Reception for Female Athletes
- Monthly luncheons with coaches and players
- Exciting athletic tours coordinated by the Cougar Club and the BYU Alumni Association
- Cougar Club chapters throughout the United States also hold their own events in San Diego, Ventura, and Fresno, CA; Albuquerque, NM; Boise, ID; North Texas; Louisville, KY, Southwest Washington; Las Vegas, NV; and Phoenix, AZ; as well as in Salt Lake City, and St. George, UT. Club Members and other BYU fans interested in starting a Cougar Chapter in their area should contact the Cougar Club Office. A charter chapter requires only 10 memberships in a localized area.

REASONS TO SUPPORT BYU AS A COUGAR CLUB MEMBER

1. With costs increasing more rapidly than ticket revenue, additional support is necessary to maintain a full athletic agenda.
2. Vital Cougar Club funds help maintain a strong athletic department.
3. BYU's athletic success is dependent on its ability to recruit outstanding student athletes. Cougar Club provides the essential resources to bring recruits to campus for recruiting visits and to send coaches on the road for recruiting trips.
4. Club funds strengthen the women's athletic program, helping it to achieve equality with other well-established programs.
5. Club funds help to provide the best physical resources possible.
6. A strong athletic program provides opportunities for talented young people to develop their full potential.
7. A winning athletic program brings positive state and national recognition to Provo, enhancing the local business climate and quality of life.

ATHLETIC COMPLEX

A quantum leap in athletic facilities will be realized this fall of two new buildings, indoor practice facility and the Student Athlete Center. Groundbreaking on September 17, 2002 started a fast-track schedule for the buildings which will rival the best athletic and academic facilities in the country. These facilities were built in a joint venture by Okland Construction of Salt Lake City and Span Construction of California with architecture design by the firm of Valentiner/Crane/Brunjes/Onyon from Salt Lake City.

The scheduled move-in date for the indoor practice facility is mid-November. It will be used 55 percent of the time by the university for classes and intramurals and 45 percent of the time, generally between 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., by the varsity teams. The 93-foot-high arched roof is visible throughout the valley as a BYU icon. The building is 422 feet long and 222 feet wide with 106,000 square feet. Among its features are two artificial turf fields, retractable goalposts on each end, a sideline staging facility for offensive linemen and batting cages.

The scheduled move-in date for Student Athlete Center (SAC) is early December. It will house the student-athlete academic center, a strength and conditioning center, training facilities, an equipment room, conference rooms and coaches offices. Among its features are a three-story atrium named Legacy Hall where fans can view key events making up BYU's rich athletic tradition; a two-level restaurant named Legend's where fans can view four 42-inch television screens; a 75-yard-long lockerroom for the football team; legacy lockers, and a memorabilia store.

One of the jewels of the 126,300 square-foot SAC is the Cougar Club conference room which, along with the two-story weight room, has an impressive view of Mt. Timpanogos.

You will receive 10 free oak trees when you join The National Arbor Day Foundation

The Oak Tree Chosen As "America's National Tree"

in a nationwide online vote hosted by The National Arbor Day Foundation

10 Good Reasons For You To Plant Oak Trees Now

1. Trees conserve energy in the summer, and save you money. Properly planted trees can cut your air-conditioning costs by 15-35%.

2. Trees bring songbirds close by. Birdsong will fill the air as your oaks provide nesting sites, and their acorns serve as food for 30 species of songbirds, waterbirds, and upland ground birds. Squirrels love them, too.

3. Trees help clean the air. Trees produce the oxygen we breathe, and remove air pollution by lowering air temperature, through respiration, and by retaining particulates.

4. Trees around your home can increase its value by up to 15% or more. Studies of comparable houses with and without trees place a markedly higher value on those whose yards are sheltered by trees.

5. Trees help clean our rivers and streams. Trees hold the soil in place and reduce polluted runoff into our waterways.

6. Trees conserve energy in the winter. Trees slow cold winter winds, and can cut your heating costs 10-20%.

7. Trees fight global warming. They remove carbon dioxide from the atmosphere, the major contributor to global warming.

8. Trees make your home, and your neighborhood, more beautiful. Trees mark the changing seasons, and add grace and color.

9. The people have chosen the oak as America's National Tree through an online vote at arborday.org. Now you can plant this fitting symbol of our nation's strength and spirit.

10. It's easy! Here's how: Join the nonprofit Arbor Day Foundation and we'll send you 10 trees ... FREE ... with easy-to-follow planting instructions.

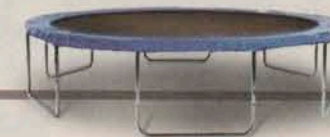

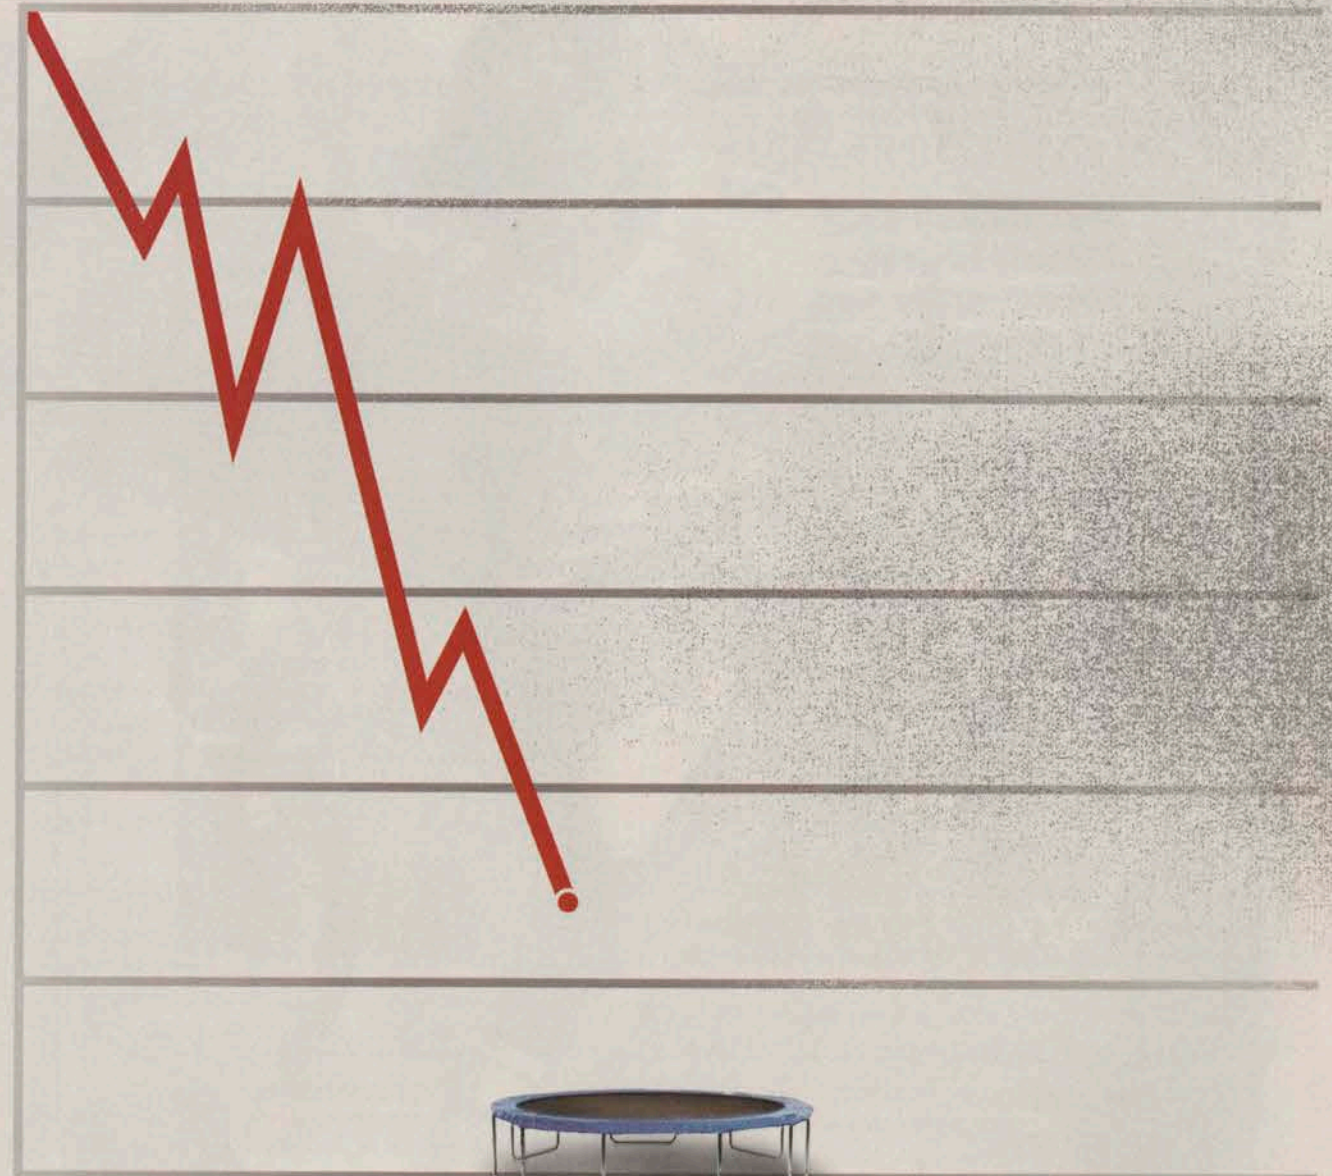

When you join you'll receive 10 free oaks - 2 red oaks, 2 pin oaks, 2 bur oaks, 2 scarlet oaks, and 2 willow oaks, or other trees selected for your area. You'll also receive the Foundation's colorful bimonthly, Arbor Day, a membership card, and The Tree Book with tree planting and care information. Your six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, and will be shipped at the right time for planting in your area, October through mid-December in the fall, or February through May in the spring.

To receive your free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to 10 Oak Trees, The National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, or join online at arborday.org

LAUREN WATSON

SOFTBALL ALL-AMERICAN

By Lindsey Wallace, Athletic Media Relations

The game is tied ... it's the bottom of the sixth inning against rival Utah ... bases are loaded and softball player Lauren Watson steps up to the plate. The stands are packed as Watson drills a grand slam through center field, sending the fans to their feet and giving the Cougars the win.

This pressure situation could try even the greatest athletes, but Watson comes through in the most crucial times for her team. Producing results in pressure situations makes Watson the competitor that she is.

Softball has not always been something that has come natural for Watson. Years of practice, determination and heart all attribute to where she is today.

Watson, a 5-3 junior from Castaic, Calif., started playing softball at a young age, thanks to her best friend.

"I did everything my best friend did," Watson said. "So when she signed up for softball, I did too."

As a little leaguer Watson was placed at the catcher and right field positions by her coach—the place where the least action occurs in little league. As years went by, playing catcher and outfield became more vital positions that required skill and talent.

Playing the catcher position isn't easy. Wearing clunky gear; squatting for over three hours at a time; taking foul balls in the thighs, chest and face; plus hits from charging runners—all come with the territory of a catcher.

During her childhood years, Watson continued to develop her skills and has since come a long way from hating to wear the catcher's mask and drawing circles in the dirt.

Standing at 5-3, Watson's height has always been a concern for coaches. Coaches continually wanted to reposition her, telling her that she was too small to catch or not good enough, or that someone else was better than her.

"Coaches are always brutal when you're young," Watson said. "I knew I had to do it for myself."

Hard work paid off as Watson was named first-team All-American (2001), first-team All-CIF (2001), three-time Offensive Player of the Year (1998, 2000, 2001) and Defensive Player of the Year (1999), while at Valencia High School in Calif. Watson's success attracted many of the top softball programs in the nation. The recruiting process followed and eventually Watson became the first in her family to become a student-athlete at BYU.

"Once I came to BYU, I loved it," Watson said.

Being a student-athlete at BYU is a struggle at times, juggling school, athletics, church, service, sleep and a social life.

"We work out, run, have school, meetings, double headers and we're gone for days at a time," Watson said. "It's busy, but I perform well under stress."

Aside from playing softball at BYU, Watson also enjoys engaging in service-oriented activities such as speaking at school assemblies, being involved in Dare programs and helping special needs children at local elementary schools. This fall Watson looks to volunteer her time to help in cancer work at Primary Children's Hospital. By volunteering her time, Watson hopes to pay back the debt to those who have helped her deal with her mother's cancer.

During the 2002 Christmas break, Watson returned home to receive some devastating news—her mother had been diagnosed with cancer.

"It gave me a lot of time to reflect and think about what I wanted to do with my life," Watson said.

The Christmas break came quickly to an end and Watson returned to BYU to fulfill her responsibilities as a student-athlete. The team supported Watson and gave her the reassurance she needed to start the season while her mother began chemotherapy in January 2003.

"I felt helpless at first because I wasn't going to have any influence on my mom's recovery," Watson said. "I'm so thankful for great teammates and coaches who supported me and made this time easier."

The softball team held team fasts and meetings to show support for Watson. Her mother underwent therapy and continued to show improvement.

"Once I knew my mom was ok, that's when my season started to pick up for me," Watson said.

The 2003 season proved to be a success for Watson. She earned second-team Easton All-American, Mountain West Conference All-Tournament Team, second-team All Region and MWC Player of the Week honors.

Starting in 52 games last season for the Cougars, Watson helped the team in whatever role was needed.

"Watson is a complete player,"

After earning a second-team Easton All-American citation last season, junior Lauren Watson returns to add depth and experience to the Cougar line-up with her competitiveness, leadership and solid play.

softball coach Gordon Eakin said. "Her talent helps us regardless of the position she's playing."

The lefty hitter was second in the Mountain West Conference in 2003 for her batting average (.379), hits (66) and home runs (10).

Watson has developed into an offensive threat at the plate, but said that becoming a good home run hitter is not something you can focus on.

"You have to be very natural and react to the pitch," Watson said. "I like to think that every now and then I get lucky, getting my favorite pitch that I can turn on."

Due to her offensive success last season, Watson was voted the BYU Offensive Player of the Year by the coaching staff and teammates.

"She's competitive and contributes vocally, with the bat and behind the plate," sophomore pitcher Brooke Boyce said. "She's always wanting to win and does everything she can to help us win."

Watson is an all around athlete who is always trying to outdo herself to become better and rise to any challenge.

"The bigger the challenge, the tougher she is and she sets no limitations on herself," Eakin said. "She's a gamer and I wish everyone had that competitive spirit."

Watson's success in softball earned her an invitation to play with the Spain National team this past summer. The offer was turned down so Watson could spend time with her mother and family, but she said it's still an option for next summer.

After returning from the summer break, Watson returns hungry for a MWC title and a shot at the 2004 World Series.

"We have to take baby steps in order to reach our main goals, but we need to have them in the back of our minds during the season," Watson said.

The young program continues to build its reputation since former BYU President Merrill J. Bateman announced in 2000 that the BYU softball team would be upgraded to an NCAA division I sport.

Since the BYU environment attracts many student athletes for reasons other than just sports, the program has been able to draw from a gifted pool of athletes who want the whole package.

Lauren Watson

"We're recipients of good softball talent," Eakin said. "We have the advantage of the draw, which has helped us get out to such a quick start."

The Cougars continue to get their name out by their competitive play against national powerhouse teams such as UCLA, Stanford, Washington, California and Nebraska. They also house one of the nicest facilities in the nation, Gail Miller Field.

Last season's success earned the Cougars four top-10 national rankings in team batting average (7th), scoring (8th), slugging percentage (4th) and home runs per game (6th).

"We've built an excellent reputation in the softball world and have come along fast for a new program," Eakin said. "Top schools are inviting us to play because they know we play a good brand of softball."

This season the Cougars will be put to the test early, as they face teams such as Hawaii, Tennessee and Oregon State at the first tournament of the season hosted by the University of Hawaii. The team will face other tough competition like Stanford before starting into conference play.

ference play.

With a talented team returning and the high level of talent coming in, the Cougars will continue to refine their excellent reputation in the softball world.

"We have an excellent recruiting class coming in, including highly sought after players, plus a good nucleus returning from last year," Eakin said. "I'm optimistic that we've assembled the right mixture of players to make us competitive."

Watson will return to the Cougar lineup this season to provide leadership and experience on the offensive and defensive ends. After extensive training in the off-season, Watson hopes to return stronger and help her team even more this season.

"I'm so excited about this year's team," Watson said. "We've worked hard to get where we are and we're doing a good job of getting our name out. We continue to get better each year and I think we're going to go far this season."

The Cougars are coming off a 14-1 record after the fall season and will kick off their regular season at the 2004 Hawai'i Paradise Classic in February.
