¹Sirsi is the corporate name of the producer of the library's online catalog and database system, Unicorn®.

²Virtually all loans are now recorded through the library's check-out system.

³The HBLL made the transition from the Dewey Decimal Call Numbers to the Library of Congress (LC) Call Numbers several years ago. The one area where there is an exception was in the Juvenile Collection currently located on the 4th floor in the southwest wing. The Dewey numbers here primarily reflect circulation of that collection.

⁴Miscellaneous includes items that are circulated but did not match the LC or Dewey Call Number ranges as assigned within the Sirsi report (e.g., curriculum, Mid-East/Icelandic/Welsh, Sampler, etc.).

⁵A change in the way circulation is tracked by user profile affected the final report in 2012, resulting in a large increase in Others while seeing dramatic decreases in all the other profiles.

⁶Others are check-outs that were missing a user profile in Sirsi; they are still counted in overall circulation statistics. The way in which some patrons were classed by circulation resulted in significant changes in circulation patterns for 2013 with past totals being adjusted to match this new criteria.
